CASTLED HOME IS ABODE OF GRIEF

Harriman Family Alone in Magnificent Domicile on the Hill.

FUNERAL WILL BE HELD SATURDAY

In New York Magnate's Death is Taken With Great Calmness.

Arden, N. Y., Sept. 10.—Arrangements for the funeral of Mr. Harriman, which is to be held here Sunday from St. John's Episcopal church, were completed today. The services, which are to be strictly private and attended only by the immediate family and a few life-long friends, will be conducted by the Rev. J. Holmes McGuinness at 3:30 p. m.

The active pall bearers will be the six men in charge of the various departments of Mr. Harriman's estate at Arden and Turner. They are Charles T. Ford, his general superintendent; W. N. Viner, manager of the farm at Arden; W. M. Robbins, superintendent of Mr. Harriman's stock farm, and in general charge of his trotting horses at Goshen; P. W. Mandigo, his master carpenter; E. P. Schultz, master mason, and Wm. A. McClellan, superintendent of the Arden Farms' Dairy company. The list of honorary pall bearers has not been announced.

Grave Blasted From Rock.

The millionaire's body will rest in a grave blasted from the solid rock of the hillside. This method of burial was adopted when his oldest son, Edward H. Harriman, jr., was buried twenty-two years ago. The Harriman plot is in a far corner of the grave yard and the only spot in the enclosure where the bluestone of Tower Hill rises to the surface. Men began work today quarrying out the grave.

A drizzling rain began this morning and little or no work was done in the villages of Turner and Arden. The 200 or more workmen on the Harriman estate have been laid off until Monday.

Wm. A. McClellan, the superintendent of the Harriman dairies, told a group of workmen at the Turner station that he believed the work of completing Arden house and laying out the grounds would go on after the funeral, according to Mr. Harriman's plans. "That was his wish," he said, "and I believe it will be carried out.

"I have lost the best friend I ever had," declared Mr. McClellan, "and the best friend of every man here."

"Yes; that's so," said several of his listeners. "There'll never be another boss like him."

Daughter Will Take Charge.

The belief here is that the active management of the Tower Hill improvements will devolve upon his oldest daughter. Mary Harriman had always been her father's companion in his walks and drives about the estate. The men say that in mental make-up she approaches her father nearer than any of the other children. Mrs. Harriman, it is said, would be glad to return to the old Harriman farm home at the foot of the hill, which the family occupied when they first came to Arden, twenty-two years ago. In spite of all its castled magnificence, "Arden house" to her will always recall the last days of her husband. When the financier came there on August 24 he was already a dying man. The house has not a cheerful association.

The Harriman family has shut itself up alone to its grief. Supt. McClellan, on their behalf, asked the newspaper men at Turner this morning to make no attempt to reach the house. He said that for a day or two the dead man's nearest relatives, who are gathered at Arden house, preferred to receive no visits of either condolence or business.

The telegraph station at Arden has been kept busy since yesterday afternoon receiving messages of sympathy from all parts of the world. The telegrams are being sent up the hill in baskets with hundreds of letters that began to pour in this morning. One secretary at the house is kept busy opening and answering these messages.

DEATH OF BABE IN HOTEL ROOM NEW MYSTERY

Detroit Police Have Fresh Problem of Mortality to Unravel.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 10.—The body of a three months old baby girl was found alone today in a room at the Library Park hotel. The child was brought to the hotel yesterday by a woman who registered as Mrs. J. C. Capon, of Chicago, and said she wanted a room for only a short time as she intended to leave town on an evening train.

A postmortem was ordered as well as a medical examination of the baby's body to determine whether the little girl was poisoned. The woman paid in advance for her room and departed in less than an hour, leaving the key inside the door.

CANCER CAUSE OF HARRIMAN'S DEATH

Viennese Specialist Says He Diagnosed Trouble as That in July.

PROF. STRUEMPELL ADMITS THE FACT

Bourses of London, Paris and Berlin Unaffected by Magnate's Death.

Vienna, Sept. 10.—Prof. Adolf Struempell, the Viennese specialist whom the late E. H. Harriman came to Europe to consult, now admits that when he saw Mr. Harriman in July he diagnosed his complaint as cancer.

Prof. Struempell, who is now at Breslau, has sent the following signed statement to the Associated Press:

"I diagnosed Mr. Harriman's complaint as carcinoma of the stomach the end of July. I could not of course communicate this diagnosis to private inquirers, but I informed Mr. Harriman's American physicians that the conditions did not indicate that an operation was hopeless. I hastened Mr. Harriman's departure homeward."

NO SHOCK IN PARIS.

Paris, Sept. 10.—Although the Paris bourse for several days past has been hanging anxiously on news of the condition of the late E. H. Harriman, the announcement of the financier's death did not create a shock. Prices held steady, in some cases showing improvement over yesterday's close. Among the French financiers Mr. Harriman's immense power and capacity was widely recognized, but the general feeling is that the United States are so rich in resources and productive capacity is so great that the death of one man, no matter how far-reaching his interests, will not stop the onward march of the country's prosperity.

Tribute by Judge Gary.

E. H. Gary, who is here, speaking of Mr. arriman's death today, said: "Mr. Harriman was a great man intellectually. His talents were applied especially to the management of the leading railroad lines, although his influence in financial circles was important, it is doubtful if he was interested in the speculative markets to the extent that sometimes was attributed to him.

"Although he was at times a large purchaser of securities for investment or control and therefore an important influence in Wall street, during the last year he devoted himself principally to building up for permanent successful operation the great railroad systems with which he was connected and in whose policies his voice was potential.

He Desired Peace.

"Mr. Harriman was aggressive and sometimes he excited the displeasure and criticism of his acquaintances, but he most earnestly desired peace and friendship with all. His death undoubtedly will be keenly felt in the business world, and it may temporarily affect adversely some conditions, but big and influential as he was the great and growing prosperity of the country cannot long be interrupted by his death.

"If I were to pay a personal tribute to Mr. Harriman I would say he was a good friend to those he believed to be his friends. He was kind, generous and friendly in his relations with these people, but his most admirable characteristic was his affection and considerate regard for the members of his family."

MARKET WAS PROTECTED.

Berlin, Sept. 10.—Private cablegrams to banking and brokerage interests here yesterday prepared the Berlin bourse for the death of E. H. Harriman and said that arrangements had been made by the Morgan and other interests in New York to protect prices.

The bourse opened with American securities fractionally off, but the market generally was firm.

The newspapers today contain appreciations of Mr. Harriman as the most powerful personality in American

THREE TOTS PERISH IN BURNING OF COTTAGE

Two Others and Father Injured at Summer Home in Minnesota.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 10.—Three children were burned to death, two others and the father, Robert A. Walsh, were seriously burned today in a fire in the summer cottage of the Welsh family at White Bear lake.

The dead are:

Constance, aged 9 months; Robert and John, aged 4 and 5.

The injured:

William, aged 9; Sarah, age not given, and the father.

The family, comprising thirteen in all, were asleep in the second story of the cottage when the fire started from an explosion of a gasoline stove in the kitchen. The flames spread rapidly throughout the frame structure and quickly cut off the escape of the whole family.

Mr. Walsh, the father and son, William, in attempting to rescue all of the children, were badly burned about the head, arms and chest and were compelled to abandon the three dead ones in the house to their fate.

VICTIM OF FEUD DIES.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 10.—Lewis Gregory, deputy sheriff of Wayne county, who was shot in the political faction feud battle in that county last Saturday, died here today. He was shot eight times. Gregory made a dying statement in which he said he shot Isaac Clark, another deputy sheriff, who was killed instantly.

PLAGUE WIPED OUT.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—The state department has received a cablegram from Minister Russell at Caracas dated yesterday, saying that the Venezuelan government officially had declared the bubonic plague epidemic at an end.

HARRIMAN STOCKS SOAR IN MARKET

Lead Wall Street in Big Upward Movement of Trading.

UNION PACIFIC IS AMAZINGLY STRONG

Death of Rail Magnate is Fully Discounted and Market is Buoyant.

New York, Sept. 10.—The opening was strong and orderly with interest centered around the posts where Union Pacific and Southern Pacific are dealt in.

On transactions of 3,000 shares Union Pacific opened at quotations of 197 and 196½ as compared with 194¼ at the close yesterday. Southern Pacific, on transactions of 5,000 shares, gained from 2 to 2¾ points. Union Pacific preferred showed an advance of 2½ over last night. Other stocks in which Mr. Harriman held large interests, notably B. & O., Atachison and New York Central, showed gains ranging from large fractions to 1¼ points.

Prices Yielded a Bit.

United States Steel was strong on a moderate volume of trading.

Prices yielded from the high opening within the first quarter of an hour in a very unanimated market, but were rising again by 10:30 o'clock. The reaction had reached 1½ in Northern Pacific; 1¼ in Southern Pacific and 1 in New York Central, Great Northern preferred and Erie.

Professional operators who made short sales at the high opening level found resistance to the decline and rebought their stocks. On the rebound prices rose higher than at the open-

MURDER MYSTERY IN CINCINNATI HAS DEEPENED

Indication That Sprague Was in Fear and Had an Enemy.

Cincinnati, Sept. 10.—New developments still deepen the mystery surrounding the death of Scott Sprague, who was shot in a room in the presence of his bride of two weeks early yesterday morning and died on the way to a hospital.

Mrs. Sprague, who was a Miss Cross, daughter of Frank T. Cross, retired farmer of Rockford, Ill., has yet given no information that will tend to clear up the mystery and determine whether it is a case of suicide or murder.

Detectives learned today that several days ago Sprague visited George J. Saline, an attorney here, and had a mortgage drawn up in favor of his mother, who resides at Bethel, Ohio. Sprague said he feared death at any moment and wanted the legal papers prepared immediately. He gave no hint that he contemplated suicide; neither did he say at whose hands he feared he would be killed.

Detectives are now trying to find out who Sprague feared.

WILL TAKE IT UP MONDAY.

The board of public works will take up the Runnion avenue paving question on Monday. It is not likely that the contract can be let as the bid is higher than a former one submitted, and at that time it was impossible to do the work because the cost ran beyond the 50 per cent valuation limit.

LEAVES LOCAL FIRM.

W. H. Modrack, connected with the Trenkley & Koerber jewelry house in this city for some time, has resigned that position to become a traveling salesman for the newly organized Klein Brothers' company, wholesale jewelers of Cincinnati.

PEARY STILL AT BATTLE HARBOR

Explorer's Ship Taking on Coal or Receiving Some Repairs.

DR. COOK HAS GONE FROM COPENHAGEN

Explorer Coming Home, is Given a Notable Farewell by Danish.

Sydney, N. S., Sept. 10.—A wireless message received here today declares the steamer Roosevelt with Commander Peary on board is still at Battle Harbor, Labrador.

The Roosevelt was believed to be still coaling and preparing to leave Battle Harbor for the run down to Sydney, a distance of about 400 miles. She may remain there for a day or two longer, in which event she may not reach here before the middle of next week.

COOK SAILS FOR AMERICA.

Copenhagen, Sept. 10.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook left Copenhagen today by sea for Christiana, where he will board the Oscar II for New York. A large crowd bade him farewell. The Oscar II is due in New York Sept. 20 or 21.

When Dr. Cook boarded the special steamer for Christiana this afternoon the water front was lined with spectators, and ships in the harbor were dressed with flags.

Committees from the geographical society and the faculty of the University of Copenhagen sent the explorer off. A director of the company owning the ship on which Dr. Cook travels made an address in which he thanked the explorer for the honor of leaving on a Danish ship.

He said while envy and jealousy had been at work Denmark believed in Dr. Cook absolutely. Dr. Cook replied feelingly.

In the course of a conversation this morning Dr. Cook said that he was perfectly willing to place his records before the American coast and geodetic survey provided Commander Peary would do the same. He said, however, there was no reason why he should be the first to apply for such an examination.

MAY REACH SYDNEY SUNDAY.

Sydney, N. S., Sept. 10.—The steamer Roosevelt with Commander Peary on board is not expected to reach Sydney until Sunday morning. Herbert L. Bridgeman, secretary of the Peary Arctic club, is of the opinion that Commander Peary will remain here for two or three days. No less than thirty newspaper men have assembled here to report the coming of the explorer.

Mr. Bridgeman, John Kehl, the American consul at Sydney, and Mrs. Peary and her two children have been invited by James Ross, of the Dominion Coal company to be his guests on board his yacht Sheila, which will go out to meet the Roosevelt as soon as she is sighted from Flat Point, thirteen miles from here.

Mr. Bridgeman said today that the Peary Arctic club would give a banquet to Commander Peary but that the date probably would be fixed after the Fulton-Hudson celebration.

PEARY'S FAMILY TO MEET HIM.

Turo, N. S., Sept. 10.—The steamer Roosevelt bearing the successful Peary arctic expedition is expected to reach Sydney tomorrow. Commander Peary and the members of his family who will meet him at Sydney, will go to the United States by rail, making only a brief stay at Sydney. The Roosevelt with her crew on board, will proceed for New York later.

Mrs. Peary and the members of her party, including her two children, arrived here this morning from Portland, Me. They will reach Sydney tonight.

GOT INTO REALM OF MIDNIGHT SUN ON TRIP

S. M. Foster, Home from Europe, Had Surfeit of Scenery on Journey.

"I feel that I have had enough scenery to last me the remainder of my life," said S. M. Foster today upon his return from a European tour of eleven weeks that took him considerably outside the more beaten paths of European travel. Mr. and Mrs. Foster reached Fort Wayne Thursday evening, and at his desk in the German-American bank this morning Mr. Foster plainly evidenced his pleasure at getting home again.

Much of the time abroad was spent in Norway and Sweden, and it is Mr. Foster's opinion that the scenery of no other countries is to be compared with the showing there. One feature of their tour was a trip into the zone of the midnight sun, penetrating to North Cape, beyond Hammerfest, the northernmost city in the world.

The presence of cholera in St. Petersburg made it necessary for the tourists to eliminate the invasion of Russia, which had been included in the original itinerary of the party, and Mr. and Mrs. Foster went to Scotland and Ireland to spend the time scheduled for the Russian trip.

THE WEATHER.

Washington, Sept. 10.—Forecast for Indiana: Fair tonight and Saturday; slightly cooler tonight.

Ohio: Generally fair tonight and Saturday; cooler northeast portion tonight; light variable wind

Lower Michigan: Generally fair tonight and Saturday; cooler west portion tonight.

Illinois: Fair tonight and Saturday railroad development and finance. Reference is made to the rapid success of his career and his financial genius.

Isadore Lowe, the great German industrialist, said today that the financial opinion of Berlin was that the American situation was too firm to be deeply affected by the death of Mr. Harriman and that it would immediately readjust itself and move forward as before.

REGRET IN LONDON.

London, Sept. 10.—The death of E. H. Harriman has caused very general regret throughout the financial district of London, where his work in building up the railway system in America, which he controlled, has been greatly admired.

Many of the best known financiers of London, including Lord Rothschild, are at present out of the city, but Leopold Rothschild said today: "As we had not the pleasure of Mr. Harriman's acquaintance it would be presumptuous in us to say more than that we regret the loss of a very great man."

Sir Felix Schuster and other financiers expressed regret at the passing away of Mr. Harriman, but agreed that any great slump in prices was unlikely as it was certain that Mr. Harriman's vast interests would be looked after by able men and that American bankers and financiers would support the market should any alarm develop.

The death of Mr. Harriman was anticipated by the stock exchange, and after a long period of uncertainty the effect of the passing away of the railroad magnate was not as pronounced as has been anticipated. Prices were marked down at the opening, but the market was quite unconcerned and it recovered quickly and well when the buyers came forward.

ing, Union Pacific touching 197¾, Reading 158⅞ and U. S. Steel 78. The market then became somewhat quieter.

Very heavy buying orders flowed into the market when it was seen that prices were resisting the first selling pressure. Early in the second hour Union Pacific shot up 6, Southern Pacific 4, Reading 2½ and the list generally from 1 to over 2 points.

U. P. Shorts in Distress.

The shorts in Union Pacific found themselves in acute distress as the prices continued to mount upward and their urgent buying caused wild fluctuations in the price of ½ to ¾ between sales. Union Pacific sold at 202½, a rise of 3 points over last night; Southern Pacific 128⅜, a rise of 5⅜ over last night; Reading at 160⅝, a rise of 3, and U. S. Steel at 79, a rise of 2⅜.

It is announced that Kuehn, Loeb & Co., and the National City bank interests are acting in unison in Union Pacific affairs and they request stockholders to prepare their proxy blanks which they have received and forward them to the offices of the company.

This refers to proxies for the annual meeting of the Union Pacific on the second Tuesday in October.

Union Pacific Soars.

Soon after noon Union Pacific sold at 206, the preferred at 112 and Reading above 161. The violence of the advances induced a feverish tone and there were some relapses. Union Pacific falling back 2½ and the common over a point.

Union Pacific stretched its overnight gain to more than 12 points during the latter part of the day. Reading's rise reached 5½. The general price movement was upward again but not in the proportion of these movements. The market maintained its aggressive strength, however, until the end of the day.

Union Pacific touched 207¼ before the closing.

ing of E. H. Harriman from the realm of business where he had long occupied a dominant position, achieved by remarkable genius and intense energy, the attention of hosts of his friends and admirers turned today to the stricken family in the silent house on Tower Hill at Arden.

The magnificent courage with which Mr. Harriman faced the unconquerable enemy was characteristic of the man and stirred the emotions not only of those who had been close to the railroad financier, but elicited tributes from men who had been his opponents in many a business fray. Almost to the very last the mind of the man who had never given up in defeat continued actively directing the great business he had built up. His last instructions were delivered to a subordinate only a few hours before his death.

Sustained by His Will Power.

Constant vigil had been maintained at the Harriman home all during the night preceding his death, for the members of his family realized that only the stern will power of the man sustained him in the unequal fight he was waging. A crisis was anticipated at any moment, but Mr. Harriman's cheerful optimism abundantly expressed when he returned from Europe to take, as he said, "the after-cure," gave hope that he might yet survive the critical stage.

Ex-Judge Robert S. Lovett, vice president of the Union Pacific and one of Mr. Harriman's closest associates, remained at the house all Wednesday night. Although the patient's vitality was at a low stage and he was suffering from a high fever he revived a trace yesterday morning and endeavored to cheer his despairing wife and children.

Said He Would Get Well.

"Don't worry, my dear," he said to his daughter, Miss Mary Harriman, "I am going to get well."

Some hours later it became apparent that the end of the brilliant career was approaching, and the members of Mr. Harriman's family were summoned to his bedside.

There, according to one of those present, the scene enacted was most affecting as the husband and father bade his wife and children good-by. With unfaltering courage but ebbing strength he clasped hands with all for the last time, embraced them, spoke words of cheer to his wife and daughters and offered advice to his sons, Roland and Averill. Roland, the youngest son, who had been his father's constant companion during his illness, was shaking with sobs as his father clasped him in his arms and whispered farewell words.

News of Death Suppressed.

Mr. Harriman's death occurred at 1:35 p. m., but the fact was not announced until after the close of the stock market. About 2 o'clock Wall street heard rumors that the financier was dead, but that statement to that effect would not be given out until after the stock exchange session ended. A telephone call to the Harriman home at 1:45 brought a positive denial of the report of Mr. Harriman's death.

The general opinion in financial circles this morning was that the business world was prepared for the shock of Mr. Harriman's passing. So firm was believed to be the foundation he had established for the towering business structure he reared that little or no apprehension was expressed. It was pointed out that the railroad builder had placed at the head of the various properties he controlled men in whom he had confidence and who doubtless had instructions to pursue the policies which had carried the Harriman enterprises to success.

It is the general belief that overwork was the cause of Mr. Harriman's death. There was some malady of the digestive organs which, it is understood, was never positively diagnosed and the precise nature of which never will be known. There is to be no autopsy. The funeral services will be held at Arden on Sunday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock and will be strictly private.

Signs of sorrow at the death of Mr. Harriman were numerous in the financial district today. The flag on the stock exchange was at half-mast and similar tribute was paid by other institutions and banking houses. All the Harriman offices in New York will be closed until Monday with the exception of the treasurer's and transfer offices of the companies.

Will Arrange Succession.

While no meetings of the Harriman boards of directors have been called, it is expected the executive committee of the Union Pacific will meet next Tuesday and arrange for the temporary successions for the positions held by Mr. Harriman. It is believed the powers of Mr. Krutschnett, general director of maintenance and operation of the Union Pacific, and of Mr. Stubbs, general director of traffic, will be increased.

The Kuhn, Loeb National City bank interests are expected to continue as the chief financial agents for the Harriman properties. Jacob H. Schiff, of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., today declined to discuss the future policy of the Harriman lines except to say that Mr. Harriman's plan of construction and development doubtless will be carried out.

News of Death Not Withheld.

The following statement was given out at the Union Pacific offices in this city today:

"The report published today that Mr. Harriman died at 1:30 p. m. is absolutely untrue.

"He died at 3:35 p. m. as was immediately announced both at Arden and at 120 Broadway.

"Mrs. Simons did not arrive until after his death and authorizes me to deny that she intended to make any statement fixing the time.

"W. G. Lyle."

TRIBUTE BY MR. MURRAY.

Chicago, Sept. 10.—Speaking of the death of the late E. H. Harriman, President Oscar G. Murray, of the B. & O. railroad, who is here on an inspection trip, said:

"In Mr. Harriman the commercial and financial worlds and particularly the railroads have lost a most active, efficient, courageous and successful man. He quickly grasped what was necessary to expand and enhance the business of the country. He was a hard fighter, firm and decisive, but always fair. His policies, which are now thoroughly understood and appreciated, will have an extended and a continuous influence. Many men engaged in works in which he was interested are sufficiently trained therein and know how to carry on the completion of the enterprise which he originated. He was to me a very warm personal friend and I deeply lament his loss."

sary time and legal machinery to insure the choice of a majority of the voters being respected and enforced, in convention and committee.

"No interference with the personal liberty of any citizen except such as is essential to secure the equal rights of all the citizens.

"Taxation of corporations by the state alone, which their creation and regulation should remain.

"A constitutional amendment authorizing the levy of a federal income tax.

NO LIGHTS THIS YEAR.

County Council Did Not Make Appropriation—Levy Fixed.

The county council adjourned this morning after approving and assigning the record of the term and did not agree to an appropriation for ornamental lights about the court house square. Frank Rahe, chairman of the committee from the Retail Merchants' association, made a final appeal, but the members could not see it that way. A special session may be called later and the money set aside.

The tax levy was fixed yesterday and is the same as it was last year. The items are as follows:

General county fund, 26.65 cents on the $100, with a dollar on each poll.

Bridge fund, 9½ cents.

New court house fund, 6½ cents.

Gravel roads, 6 cents.

The total levy is 48.65 cents on the hundred valuation.

GRADING TOOLS ARRIVE.

Work on Bryan Interurban Line Goes Forward Rapidly.

President Marx Dukes, of the Fort Wayne Retail Merchants' association, who earlier in the week visited the scene of the grading operations for the new Fort Wayne-Bryan interurban line, says that the contractors have now received a more complete equipment of tools, and that the work of grading for the new road is going forward more rapidly.

Something like three-quarters of a mile of the road has been plowed up and a portion of it graded a short distance this side of Maysville.

ATTORNEYS OPEN UP SCHEID CONTEST IN COURT

Advance Argument That Notice Was Not Filed in Time—Courts.

Through the medium of a demurrer Attorney Frank R. Dulin attacked the validity of the contest made by Peter Scheid, who asks for a recount of the votes cast at the last city primaries because he believes he was named as a democratic councilmanic candidate, alleging that the statutes provide that notice of a contest must be given to the county clerk within ten days and that action in court must be filed in ten days after the first Thursday following the election.

Judge O'Rourke heard the arguments in the circuit court today and took the question under advisement. Attorney Dulin stated that his clients, who are the successful candidates, have no objection to a recount, but their consent was never asked and they were forced into court to decide the matter and are making a fight.

Judge Blames Families.

At the conclusion of the evidence in the divorce suit of Lillian P. Mennewisch against Henry W. Mennewisch in the superior court this morning Judge Heaton took the whole matter under advisement. He indicated in a talk to the principals that he thought both are to blame in a measure for the separation.

He added that in his opinion if they would live by themselves away from the interference of their families there would be no trouble between them and that the bitter feeling displayed during the trial indicated that the families ought to keep out of the muddle.

New Term Monday.

The new term of the superior court will begin on Monday. An adjournment was taken today and there will be no session tomorrow.

Admitted to Practice.

John W. Long, of Monroeville, was admitted today to the practice of law by the judge of the circuit court. Mr. Long has been engaged in the real estate business at Monroeville and has been fitting himself for the practice at the same time.

BRETHREN AT LAFAYETTE.

Conference Engaged in Election and Fixing of Boundaries.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 10.—Election of officers and determination of the boundaries of church districts were the most important matters of the St. Joseph conference of the United Brethren church today. A number of changes were contemplated in the boundaries of the different churches to strengthen weak churchos and relieve pastors in circuits where the work is too severe. Rev. J. Simons, of Peru, read an excellent report of work done in building a church at South Bend.

The reading course committee, which has charge of candidates for the ministry who take this route to the pulpit rather than by attending a theological school, made a report showing a large number of candidates who have completed the second year's reading and have been admitted to the course. The church erection committee, of which W. H. Rittenhouse is chairman, reported on the work of the year. This committee lends assistance to churches in building projects. During the conference year ninety-four churches were assisted.

The county of Lancashire, England, employs 116,300 people in its coal mines, producing 25,000,000 to 30,000,000 tons of coal yearly. In 1908 the output for person employed was 243.3 tons. The death and accident rate is high; last year 24 per cent. of the miners received injuries requiring medical attendance. Lives lost numbered 206.

CROWD SWARMS TO THE GREAT FAIR OFFICE

Everybody Puts in Busy Day Getting Things Into Shape.

The office of the Great Fort Wayne fair in the court house was almost swamped today and although the force had been increased and every preparation made to take care of the rush of business that always precedes the removal to the grounds the clerks were hardly able to attend to all there was to do and this is taken as an indication that there will be a bigger and better exhibition next week than the county has ever known.

Entries have been coming in steadily for several weeks and Dr. W. F. Myers, the busy secretary, had begun to congratulate himself upon the fact that he had avoided a rush. The swarm in his office today proved just how far wrong he was in his calculations. In the first place he booked a big ranch show which he swears carries forty real Indians with it along with ponies, buffaloes, ranch cattle and everything that goes to make up the biggest aggregation of the kind making the fair circuits this year.

He also sold out privileges until he was weary of the work and then he found time to announce that instead of the shortage of cattle that he had to contend with last year he finds more herds entered than he can take care of. Many of the stockmen got to the grounds today with their herds and will get them all housed and fixed up for the big show.

A feature has always been made of the stock parade every day at noon and this year there will be an exceptionally fine display and the grandest showing of blooded animals that has ever been inside the fences of the Driving park. The rain has been of great benefit in the matter of laying the dust and it will help get the track in excellent shape for record-breaking time.

PRESSING CLOSE IN DETROIT MURDER EPISODE

Second Physician May be Arrested in Maybelle Millman Case.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 10.—The authorities today continued search for evidence relating to the death of Maybelle Millman, the Ann Arbor girl, who died on an operating table and whose body was hacked up and thrown into Ecorse creek near here. The discovery yesterday of the missing portion of the body resulted in complete verification of the theory of the police that Miss Millman met her death on a surgeon's table. Dr. George A. Fritch, arrested in connection with the case, was still in custody and no other arrests had yet been made.

Thought Woman Was a Clue.

Captain McDonnell and Sheriff Gaston last evening had brought to police headquarters a woman who had fainted at the state fair grounds upon reading of the fate of Maybelle Millman. After talking to the woman the authorities left for the fair grounds. After their return, however, they reported they found no evidence in the case.

It is reported that another physician may be arrested.

Dr. Fritch was visited last night by his wife and friends and an effort may be made to secure his release. This will be fought by the county authorities.

Dr. Fritch was taken before Police Justice Jeffries about noon. His attorney, Frank Lodge, objected to Judge Jeffries' intimation that bail might be fixed at $10,000 and suggested $5,000.

Statement by Accused Doctor.

Dr. Fritch made a brief statement to the newspaper men. He said:

"My arrest was a great surprise to me. I do not know that I ever saw the Millman girl, but I think she was in my office two weeks ago in company with another girl.

"Several people were waiting and when their turn came I invited the two girls to enter my private office. Only one of them came in and she asked if she might make an appointment for an examination. I said the present time was as good as any, but she said she would not wait then and would call again. We talked for about three minutes. Nothing was said about the nature of her case.

"The following Monday her friend came and asked if I had seen her. I replied no. I am not positive but I think it was the Millman girl who came to see me."

Dr. Fritch was the only person under arrest up to noon. Sheriff Gaston is believed to have gone to Ann Arbor.

What Chemist Find.

It is reported that County Chemist J. E. Clark, Dr. Thaddeus Walker and County Physician Grimes have found by a microscopic examination that no criminal operation was performed upon Maybelle Millman.

Sheriff Gaston returned to Detroit at noon from Ann Arbor bringing with him Miss Martha Henning, the former chum of Maybelle Millman. The girl was taken to the woman's department in the station.

THE BIRTH RECORD.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Elias Conrad, of Grabill—a son.

Mrs. Mattie A. Stewart, who sustained severe injuries in a fall five weeks ago, has recovered sufficiently to return to her home with Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Holverstott, 1323 Washington boulevard west.

A case of small pox is reported in the family of Henry Lesh living on the New Haven road.

A radical cure for insebriety is attributed to Zaleucus, who flourished about 500 B. C. He ordered that any invalid who took wine in contravention of his physician's orders should be put to death. This story is interesting as showing an attitude toward alcoholic beverages supposed to be ultra modern.

LADS HUNT; ONE IS KILLED.

Noblesville, Ind., Sept. 10.—Charles, the eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Shocks, living east of this city, was shot and almost instantly killed this morning by his brother, John, eleven years old. The boys were in the country hunting birds. John saw a crow on a fence and fired, the ball missed the bird and struck Charles in the region of the heart. He lived only an hour.

THE CURING OF MR. SPOYLET

MR. SPOYLET had a habit
Of divining some one's sore spot;
Then with clumsy speech he'd stab it
And would thus create one more spot
That would give a chance for bruises.
If this action you resented,
He would think you one who loses
Chances to be complimented,
And in his soul soothing way
He would lift his brows and say,
"I didn't mean it."

Mr. Spoylet almost daily
Would occasion some one's wonder
By the way that he would gayly
Stumble into some bad blunder.
Secrets—he could never hold them,
But, with an engaging dimple,
He at the wrong moment told them
With a confidence quite simple.
When the victim sadly sighed
Spoylet candidly replied,
"I didn't mean it."

Mr. Spoylet in his dancing
Always bumped into the others,
And of course his frenzied prancing
Worried all his friends and brothers.
Also, if he were out dining,
He would spill the wines and sauces,
But if some one was repining
Over costume stains and losses
Spoylet gently would observe,
With his old cast iron nerve,
"I didn't mean it."

But he's cured of all his blunders.
No one needs now to abuse him
Or in strident vocal thunders
Of forgetfulness accuse him.
All his friends quite innocently
Told the things he would keep quiet,
Likewise bumped him all ungently
In a sort of mimic riot,
And when Spoylet bade them stop
This remark they all let drop:
"We didn't mean it!"

Worse Than Earthquakes.

Speaking of volcanoes, earthquakes and other great convulsions of nature, it may be well to remember that there are some things even more destructive. Witness a tale that is told of an occurrence during the earthquake in Charleston, S. C., several years ago.

A resident of the shaken city, while he felt that his duties required him to remain there to do what he might for the sufferers, sent his six-year-old son out of the danger and confusion to the youngster's grandfather in New York. Three days after the boy's arrival the Charleston man received this telegram from his father: "Send us your earthquake and take back your boy."—Woman's Home Companion.

Grounds For Suspicion.

"So you have perfect confidence in your husband?" asks the woman who hopes everything is all right, but has her doubts.

"Why, certainly," says the young married woman. "Herbert never is away from home of evenings. He never even goes to a stag dinner. And he calls me up three or four times a day to let me know where he is. And he insists that I shall open all his letters."

"Well, I don't know. When a man acts that way it seems to me that he has something on his conscience. I've always noticed that when a man keeps himself free of suspicion there's room to suspect something."—Chicago Post.

Life of a Pimple

Complexions Are Cleared and Pimples Disappear Overnight Without Trouble.

The dispensers of poslam, a new skin discovery, ask that notice be given that no one is urged to purchase it without first obtaining an experimental package. Everyone who has tried it will find that the fifty-cent box on sale at Meyer Brothers' and all drug stores, is sufficient to cure the worst cases of eczema, where the surface affected is not too large. The itching ceases on first application. It will also cure acne, tetter, blotches, scaly scalp, hives, barber's and every other form of itch, including itching feet. Being flesh-colored and containing no grease, the presence of poslam on exposed surfaces, such as the face and hands, is not perceptible. Water and soap cannot be used in connection with it, as these irritate and prolong skin troubles, sometimes even causing them.

As to the experimental package of poslam, it can be had free of charge by mail of the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth Street, New York. It alone is sufficient to clear the complexion overnight, and to rid the face of pimples in twenty-four hours.

GOVERNOR MARSHALL ACTS.

Orders Probe of Alleged Pool-Selling Near Lawrenceburg.

Indianapolis, Sept. 10.—Governor Marshall will attempt to stop the pool selling which is said to be going on at Hanover, near Lawrenceburg, in charge of Ed Ballard, formerly of the French Lick casino. The governor is depending upon Prosecutor J. H. Russe, at Lawrenceburg, to act, but if Russe does not proceed against the place the governor will take up the matter with the circuit judge. Should he fail to get the court to act he will send his legal clerk, Burt New, to Lawrenceburg and place the matter in his hands.

The governor said yesterday that he does not know officially that a poolroom is in operation at Hanover, but he is investigating to ascertain the truth of the reports. The governor will ascertain the name of the telephone or telegraph company furnishing the reports to the poolroom and will give the concern the choice between stopping the service or suffering the revocation of its charter. The governor has written Prosecutor Russe to "get busy," and it is said that he talked to the prosecutor in no uncertain terms. Cincinnati sporting men are said to be behind the enterprise.

HARRIMAN DEAD.

If Edward H. Harriman had done nothing in his career but bring the Union Pacific out of the slough of adversity in which it had lain from the time it was built until Harriman took hold of it, his life would have been notable and esteemed useful. Harriman, however, had done other things more amazing, if not more useful. He was at once a railway executive and a stock market manipulator. He made his railroads pay. He gave them an efficiency that amounted always to vast public service. At the same time he "used them in his business." His goal was power, his method was consolidation, his moral precept was that the end justified the means. And so he worked with terrible perseverance toward his goal, combining and consolidating his properties and using them in whatever fashion best served him. But unlike most manipulators, Harriman was no wrecker. Every property that came under his control was the better for it and the business of the country gained from it. In his field he was a magnificent genius. None like him had preceded, none like him will soon follow. He was the incarnation of battle and his stupendous conflicts in the world of finance were as spectacular and romantic as any in the fields of ensanguined war.

That Mr. Harriman added splendidly to the railroad efficiency of the country will always be remembered of him. Few men dying leave a greater amount of material good wrought than the great "magnate of the Pacifics" reared to himself. Its moral effect on railway business in general has been distinct and of permanent character. The Harriman roads became patterns and amazingly good ones because he procured traffic efficiency, not at sacrifice, but at a profit. As a moral example in business Mr. Harriman came to be looked upon with genuine distrust. He was sufficient unto himself. That his rise caused others to fall did not seem to disturb him at all. His ambition was its own excuse and he pursued it with all the Napoleonic splendor of triumph the mind can imagine. His successes first amazed then appalled thoughtful and far-seeing students of conditions who were sore fretted by the vision of what might be if on top of all this one masterful genius had achieved, a Harriman should succeed a Harriman in the domain of business. He bid defiance to the law and with startling candor proclaimed that he would add railroad after railroad to his string as long as he could find one to buy and would consolidate them all if he were able. Such an aspect of morals coupled with his boundless ambition and united to such a power as he had acquired was well calculated to disturb minds trained to see far ahead. Underneath all of Mr. Harriman's ambition and militantcy, however, was the practical, utilitarian concept and purpose that the railroad business should and must be made equal to its duties. His railroads were made so and he was constantly converting earnings into efficiency.

His death had been expected and the shock of it when it finally came had been effectually discounted. He leaves a great void in the world of business, but affairs mundane will go on without him much as with him.

The gay will laugh,
* * * the solemn brood of care,
Plod on, and each one, as before, will chase
His favorite phantom.

If the police department will give a little specific attention to the practice by certain saloonists of selling to minors one of the most vicious phases of the liquor traffic can be abolished. A round-up of some of the down town places Saturday nights will result in fairly complete exposure of the saloons where boys are permitted to resort and buy drinks.

Eleven years ago the paving of Calhoun street came just about in conjunction with a "grand free carnival and street fair." That the city's principal business artery might be spick and span for the festal occasion the contractors were crowded to the limit to get the street completed. Now, without entering into any discussion of the merits of the Calhoun street pavement, it is manifestly true that a job rushed through as that improvement was cannot result in the quality of work the contract stipulates and that the people pay for. At the best Calhoun street might always have been a bad enough proposition, but it nevertheless is certain that the panic of haste in which the work was performed did nothing to improve it. If, in order to get the new pavement on Calhoun street completed this year, after an injunction suit has been fought to a finish, it is necessary to crowd the work as was done in the case of the present pavement then the improvement may very well be deferred for the better result that will be had.

Dr. Cook is carrying himself with rare good humor, with great dignity and the last degree of finesse in the storm of controversy which is flashing and crashing bout his devoted head. He has shown no anger, no jealousy, no intemperate feeling since Peary came out of the north and startled the world with his cry of "fake." If Dr. Cook is setting up a fraudulent claim to one of the greatest distinctions ever achieved by human daring and adventure, then he is the premier actor of all the ages. If he is a fakir, then his present performance is almost fit to rank with Peary's discovery of the pole. But it is important to note that those scientists and explorers who have had personal access to Dr. Cook are not only impressed but convinced by his story. The University of Copenhagen has crowned him with the highest of its honorary distinctions. That means something. Wait until Peary gets some degrees more into lower latitudes and wait until Cook has presented the mass of his evidence. Then let science judge as between them. Science at least has no chance to indulge in sentiment or partiality—else it will cease to be science.

Alexander and Caesar and Napoleon and Harriman—dead, all dead; but the old earth keeps wobbling around in her orbit just the same; always has; always will. The mighty cut mighty little more ice than the honest fellow who merely works and pays his debts.

Cook is sending after an invoice of Esquimos to prove that he did discover the north pole. Peary already has one impressed with which he expects to prove that Cook didn't.

STEIN-BLOCH SUITS similar to the one illustrated $20 to $40.

The first frosts have come; the early styles have arrived; the time for best selections IS HERE

YE QUALITY Tuttle's ROSE-SCHIRMEYER CO. HOME OF GOOD CLOTHING in Fort Wayne

When the best judgment of English and American buyers selects Stein-Bloch Clothes there must be a real reason.

Stein-Bloch clothes fit, Stein-Bloch clothes wear, Stein-Bloch clothes have a superior shape here and hereafter.

It's a hard straight fact, Sir: All our clothes represent one hundred cents worth for every dollar we charge you; a value based on their first cost to us plus our low expenses and extremely small profit, rather than on what we might consistently charge you for absolute satisfaction.

There is no store in the land which sells better tailored garments than we do. There is no tailor who makes better styled clothes than we show. And between you and the Ad Man, Sir: There's no place in Allen County better fitted to clothe a gentleman, whether his purse be long or short. Prices for both Suits and Overcoats range between ten and forty dollars. Have a try on.

MAYOR WILL INSIST ON WORK THIS YEAR

Questions Raised by Railroads Were Discussed in Detail.

Mayor W. J. Hosey is at Adams lake with a party of friends taking his annual outing and fishing trip and is not expected in the city before next week but it is not believed that he will consent to the delay asked by the railroad companies in the matter of beginning track elevation this year.

The very points raised by the companies were thoroughly discussed and the question of starting in the fall of the year was one of the important matters and the representatives of the both the Pennsylvania and Wabash did not offer any objection and rather insisted upon taking up the work this month.

The receipt by the board of public works last night of communications from J. B. McKim, superintendent of the Pennsylvania company and J. C. Sullivan who holds the same position with the Wabash, requested that the work be delayed until spring. The tenor of both letters is the same. Mr. Sullivan says his road has been unable to get material and that it will not be practical to operate temporary passenger and freight stations during the winter months and adds that Calhoun street will be blocked all during the cold weather. Mr. McKim says that the many details in connection with the new station have made it impossible for his company to go ahead and he points out the blocking of the street and interruption of traffic.

Both letters were read at the meeting of the board of public works last night and taken under advisement. No action will be taken until the return of the mayor as the board members will likely consult his wishes in the matter. He will want to see the work started before he retires from office and this will prompt him to insist.

The Board Routine.

There was objection to the opening of Pfeiffer avenue and the confirmation of the assessment roll was deferred for a week. Plans were ordered for sidewalks on Runnion avenue and the bids will be asked but no contract let until next spring. Bids on Runnion avenue for paving the street were taken under advisement and as as follows: Metropolitan or other brick, sand filler, $6.80; cement filler, $7.15; tar filler, $7.45. The lowest of the bids rejected a few weeks ago was $6.50 per linear foot.

The contract for a sewer in the alley between Lillie street and Walton avenue was awarded to Anton Rieg at 84 cents per linear foot.

The contracts with the Moellering Construction company for paving Miner street, Heustis avenue and West Columbia street were approved. The clerk was instructed to write to the Julius Haugk company at Decatur that unless it signed the contract awarded it for the pavement of East Berry street on or before next Monday its certified check on file with the board will be declared forfeited.

STALDER FAILED TO SHOW UP FOR TRIAL

Chief Witness Against the Christman Girl Not in Court.

Leroy Stalder did not show up this morning at the trial of Rosa Christman, who is charged with stealing a lot of his mother's clothing and the case was continued until tomorrow. The girl said the clothing was given to her by Stalder.

She says she met him a few nights after the one that he hospitably invited her to his home and that after talking about an automobile ride he finally proposed to take her to the theater and when she said her clothes didn't look good enough" he volunteered to get her some and brought the ones belonging to Mrs. Agnes Stalder.

The story is improbable from the fact that aside from a couple of waists and skirts, one more of each than was needed for a theater party, the girl had taken a mirror, had torn two bunches of grapes from a hat, had a paring knife and a number of things the lad would never have taken to her even if he had procured clothing for the theater. Stalder was probably ashamed to face the city court crowd and although he started from his place of employment to the city hall he did not show up.

The Other Cases.

Jeff Myers just got out of jail after four months and got drunk. He was fined $100 and costs and given thirty days and it was suspended on his promise to get out of town and stay out.

Harry Forman charged with stealing money from C. A. Dunkelberg, did not show up and the case was continued.

The case against Dave Randall, charged with selling liquor to minors, was continued until next Wednesday.

The wedding music was furnished by Miss Simon, pianiste, and Miss Clara Sloffer, soprano. The charming bride, unattended by any bridesmaids, entered the room with her father and met the bridegroom and his attendant, Mr. C. H. Caton, of Champaign, Ill., who stood near an arrangement of palms and flowers. The bride wore a white embroidered mull gown, a wreath of white flowers in her hair and held an armful of white chrysanthemums. A wedding supper was served at once. New Styles in Autumn Millinery

POSED BY MISS McCOY OF "THE MAN FROM BROADWAY" CO. PHOTOS BY JOEL FEDER.

This black hat is not only fashionable now, but is also a most useful adjunct to every wardrobe, for many of the new frock colors need the toning of an all black hat. A black hat also gives snap and emphasis to some costumes that colored headgear cannot create.

This graceful model is of black velvet and shows the high crown and dashing, curved brim which sets far down over the hair, yet has an upward roll.

A band of jet trimming and two handsome plumes trim the hat.

Many of the models displayed by authoritative milliners both here and in Paris are of napped beaver. The new beavers come in soft, artistic colorings. This hat is in a dull, old blue shade and is decorated with feathers in the same shade and satin ribbons pleated in the new fan effect.

IN THE THEATERS

GOOD BYE TO "MEN AND WOMEN"

Final Production of Famous Drama at Majestic Tonight.

For the last time at the Majestic this evening Our Own Stock company will be seen in the production of the Belasco-DeMille life story, "Men and Women," the sterling society comedy drama in which Our Own Stock company has inaugurated its second season with immense success. It is a matter of regret that requests for a further run of "Men and Women" cannot be granted, but it must give way to another of the big plays of recent years—"Shore Acres."

Not in many months has any dramatic production more generally pleased in Fort Wayne than "Men and Women," and it is one of the sterling attractions that is worth while.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" Tomorrow.

The version of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which Al W. Martin's company will present at the Majestic Saturday afternoon and evening, is as superior when compared with others as a rose to a weed. The production is in size a whale beside a minnow.

Next Monday—"Shore Acres."

"Shore Acres," the famous blending of American rural life with the simplicity of the fisher folk along the Maine coast, will be the next offering of Our Own Stock company, opening at the Majestic with the matinee Monday. Mr. Preston will be seen in the character of Nathaniel Berry, made famous by the late James A. Herne. "Shore Acres" is one of the homely, but appealing classics of the American drama, and it is now first given at popular prices.

Miss Baldwin in "Checkers."

In connection with the play of "Checkers," which will be presented at the Majestic on Sept. 16 and 17, will be seen Miss Bessie Baldwin, a Fort Wayne young woman, who has been on the stage for a number of years. Miss Baldwin's last appearance in dramatic work in this city was in a one-act play in connection with Hal Davis in vaudeville. She was with the support of Stoddart in "The Bonnie Brier Bush" for several seasons and has been with the "Checkers" company for two seasons. The play has been pronounced as superior to the book from which it is taken and has had eighteen most successful engagements in New York city during the past five years.

Amateur Night at the Lyric.

One of the biggest and best amateur shows of the season is slated for the Lyric tonight and seven local entertainers will take part, among which are Myrtle Pickard, Helen Farnan, Sol LeVine, Marie Harris, Norah Melching, Clay Hand in a novel contortion act and the Anthony aerial strong act, a decided novelty here for the first time. There will be two amateur shows, one after each of the regular vaudeville performances. Four entirely new picture subjects will be shown.

USE LINEN CLOTHS ON GLASS.

Linen glass cloths make the most satisfactory towels for wiping china, as they are smooth and do not shed lint.

Such agents as washing powders, soda, or even ammonia are not to be recommended as water softeners for cleansing china, as either will be apt to injure any delicate coloring used in the decoration of the ware. A good quality of soap is all that is necessary.

Any bad stains around the handles or on any white portion of china can be removed by rubbing with common table salt.

In preparing the tub to receive cut glass the same directions as given for china may be followed.

Ammonia, however, may be added with good results. It will add lustre to the glass. God, warm soapy water should be used, rinsing afterward in clear, warm water softened by a few drops of ammonia.

After wiping dry with one towel, another one previously warmed should be used as a polisher. Even then, the glass will not be thoroughly dry and consequently will lack brilliancy.

If convenient, each piece should be packed into a box filled with sawdust, and after remaining there some hours should be taken out and rubbed thoroughly with tissue paper. When the sawdust is not used the tissue paper should be applied as a final polish.

Any glass dish that has been used for an article containing grease should be washed by itself and not put in with other pieces of cut glass.

To clean a vessel in this way hotter water than usual will be needed. Care must be taken not to have it too high in temperature or it will break the glass.

All of our new fall hats are ready for your inspection.

SOUTHERN WAY OF COOKING RICE.

(The Circle.)

The following recipe for cooking rice to be used as a vegetable will, if followed, open the eyes of many who are constantly on the lookout for valuable additions to the bill of fare; it is the way the southern people cook it and, in fact, all people who live in rice-raising districts:

Wash it thoroughly; have plenty of water, properly salted, say three quarts to a cup of rice, boiling hot. Put the rice in the water; this will tend to cool the water more or less. In a moment or two it will again begin to boil. Then stir from the bottom once. It will not stick to the bottom of the pot if you have plenty of water to keep the grains moving freely. Let it boil for twenty minutes. Turn out into a colander and pour a cup of cold water through it. This will remove the starchy element which causes the grains to stick together. Then set back of the stove or where it will keep hot until ready to serve.

The result will be a dish of rice well cooked, every grain by itself. Only the whole grains should be used in this process of cooking.

ORANGE COMPOTE.

Boil a half pound of granulated sugar with just a little water for five minutes. Cool the syrup and add the juice of a quarter of a lemon and the meaty part of four or five oranges, carefully separated from the skin and segment and broken into small pieces.

Wear the "Stetson Exclusive" $5.00 stiff hat.

HOW TO MAKE CHINA AND CUT GLASS SHINE.

As a rule the mistress of the house attends to the washing and care of the best china and cut glass, unless, of course, she can afford to engage experienced servants who have been trained to undertake such duties.

In the usual household of mistress and maid such tasks are generally assumed by the newly made matron, whose knowledge often is not superior to that of the average maid of all work.

In washing china, while hot water is necessary to attain good results, it should not be too hot, neither should it ever be poured directly on the china. It is not unusual for some persons to pile dishes into the dishpan and then pour the water on. When the crockery is strong this does not harm, even though the water is very hot, but with fine china the result will certainly be cracked if not broken ware.

When cleansing china the bath should be prepared first, using good soap, soap jelly or a few pinches of shredded soap with the hot water to make a suds. A small mop is a convenience, and for getting around the hands of tea cups and small pitchers there is nothing nicer than an old tooth brush, the shape that is curved. The water should feel hot to the hands, and after thoroughly washing in the suds each article should be passed into a second pan of clear warm water, then taken out and drained before drying. Dishes that are hot when being wiped show an improvement over those allowed to become cold.

THE GIRLS I ALMOST KISSED.

FROM the fish I have almost caught—
Lobster or sucker or skate—
To the witty things I've thought
Just half a wink too late;
From the riches I've almost had
To the trains I have barely missed,
There is never a memory so sad
As the girls that I almost kissed.

There was Alice, who said me nay,
And Anna, who spurned me cold,
And the merry, the madcap Mac,
Who cried I was bad and bold.
Their bright eyes haunt my dreams
In a dim, delicious mist,
And a glint of pearl and ivory gleams
Through the lips that I almost kissed.

There was Rose of the soulful sigh
And June of the wistful face,
Allegra of luring eye
And the courtly poise of Grace.
Lo, out of my giddy past,
Though I squirm and struggle and twist,
The sweet ghosts find me out at last—
The girls that I almost kissed.

Though I'm fat, smooth domed and old,
And none would kiss me now,
My loves come back to fold
New wrinkles in my brow,
And each has a suit to lay
On my breach of promise list,
For the girls that I almost kissed one day
Next day I always kissed!

Well, What if He Didn't?

For many years Dr. Francis L. Patten, ex-president of Princeton university, wore side whiskers. Whenever he suggested shaving them there was a division of opinion in the family. One morning he came into his wife's dressing room, razor in hand, with his right cheek shaved smooth.

"How do you like it, my dear?" he asked. "If you think it looks well I will shave the other side too."—Everybody's Magazine.

When the Show Goes Wrong.

"You are not a profane man," said the astrologer as he read his patron's disposition, "but you sometimes become irritated and use mild expressions. Do you ever swear by the stars?"

"No," laughed the big man in the red waistcoat. "I swear at the stars."

"At them?"

"Yes. I'm a theatrical manager."—Pittsburg Post.

Caught in the Rict.

"Did you attend the Gilderseals' afternoon reception?"

"Yes; frightful jam. Mrs. Bigler had her arm broken."

"Dear me! How?"

"She happened to get in the way when the refreshment room door was opened."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Fatal Mistake.

"Why did you fire that new boy?" asks the partner of the strawberry merchant.

"Didn't you see what he was doing?" answers the other. "I told him to fill those boxes with berries, and the gawk was filling the bottoms instead of the tops."—Chicago Post.

Sweet and Gentle.

"Do you know what I would do if I were in your shoes?" asked the woman who was always giving unwelcome advice.

"Yes," replied the one who was quick at repartee; "you would be asking the way to the nearest chiropodist's."—Chicago Record-Herald.

His Ideal.

"You can talk of beauty, grace and style all you want to. The girl I'm after is a thoroughly capable woman."

"What do you mean by a capable woman?"

"Well, one who is capable of making a living for both of us."—Cleveland Leader.

So Discouraging.

"There's no satisfaction nowadays in telling a girl she's pretty as a picture."

"Why not?"

"She'll tell you it's a little speech you had all framed up."—Boston Globe.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. F. E. DAVISON, Rutland, Vt.

Call of Duty. International Bible Lesson for Sept. 12, '09. —(Acts 21: 1-17.)

One of the most remarkable exhibitions of grace ever shown by man, was the incident in the life of the Apostle Paul which we have for our lesson to-day. The characteristics of the man are shown in striking colors as we follow him through this remarkable experience.

The time has come in Paul's judgment when he must revisit Jerusalem. Duty pointed unmistakably in that direction, and he was convinced in his own mind beyond the shadow of a doubt that he ought to visit the holy city. There was no alternative. It was Jerusalem only. At the same time he was satisfied that if he went, it would be to bonds and imprisonment. The Holy Ghost witnessed in every city that the result of his visit would be personal discomfort, and physical sufferings.

Duty Heroic.

But what effect did it all have upon the apostle? Not the slightest. He said, "What mean ye to weep and break my heart? I know, as well as you what trouble awaits me, but I am ready, not only to be bound, but to die at Jerusalem!" And the gritty little hero marched on into the lion's jaws. With him the question was not comfort, ease, life even; it was duty. He knew that "man is immortal till his work is done," and he did not propose to shirk responsibility even though bonds and imprisonment were included in it. Prudence is a good thing; there are times when it should be regarded. But when some great exigency arises which calls for action, the true soul will walk the path of duty though it be with bleeding feet, and though he walk alone.

Tennyson and Carlyle were once walking through the gallery of great sculptors in London, and Tennyson turning to Carlyle said, "What do you think of that, Thomas?" "Ah, mon, it's a sad sight." "Why?" "There is nae mon among them that has a jaw." That was the grim old Scotch method of diagnosing character. It was only another way of saying that the men lacked grit, backbone, "sand," gumption, words which stand for righteousness, loyalty and truth in the world's category.

Duty, not Stubbornness.

Paul's determination was altogether a different thing from stubbornness. His pluck must not be confounded with pigheadedness. He had none of the qualities of the mule in his disposition. He cannot be charged with the folly of biting off his nose to spite his face. He never deliberately jumped out of the frying pan into the fire. If those disciples could have shown him any good reason, except mere personal discomfort for avoiding Jerusalem, he would readily have taken their advice. The very first thing he did after arriving at the city was to yield to the advice of his friends in a matter where there was no principle involved, although the result was most disastrous to himself.

Soldiers declare that the most trying time in battle is before the battle begins. The awful hush that settles down upon the men while they wait for the signal, that is what blanches the cheek, and makes the knees tremble. When the fight is on, when the blood has risen to fever heat, when the air is aflame with bursting shell, and the slope is slippery with brothers' blood, and vengeance is bursting the heart, then it is easy to fight and glorious to die. But to march up to the muzzles of shotted cannon, waiting to vomit their iron hail into your very face requires the stuff that heroes are made of.

Duty Rewarded.

Such was Paul's grit. He knew that every step of the way toward the city was taking him nearer the headsman's block. He did not understand the reason, any more than you do, why certain things in your life must be, but he knew that the Leader and Commander of the forces of the universe had the plan of campaign perfectly arranged, and he was certain that He could make no mistake. When the six hundred English soldiers at Balaklava charged into the mouth of hell, they knew when they started that some one had blundered. Not so Paul. He had received his orders from headquarters. Those orders said, Jerusalem, and at Jerusalem he would have reported, though he had been compelled to fight his way through legions of devils.

Look out how you interfere with a man who has the call of God upon him. To stop him, to delay him, to divert him, may be as calamitous, as to turn a switch in the wrong direction before a flying express train. If you cannot go with him, uncover as the hero passes on. It may be, when the coronation day of eternity comes, you may be permitted to behold the sight when the King puts the crown of glory upon his servant's head.

A Blaze of Conviction

Sweeping Over the Whole Country.

The more people know of the great discovery that has made so many remarkable cures throughout the state during the past few months, the more convinced are they of the great merit of Root Juice. Thousands of people have been cured by it all over the country. Many that use it a short while are so loud in their praise that their neighbors crowd into the drug store to get some of the health-promoting Juice. Usually one bottle will convince, and it is but seldom that five or six bottles does not make a complete cure of indigestion, constipation, nervous weakness, rheumatism and other troubles arising from a diseased condition of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It seems to cure by removing the cause. It heals and tones the organs that make and filter blood. People are going in crowds many miles to see the man that discovered the wonderful curative agent and get some of it. Bradley Bros.' drug store has the agency at this point. Root Juice is sold for $1 a bottle or three for $2.50.

TWO SMALL BOYS.

How the Newcomer Was Welcomed by a Lad of His Own Age.

THE van that brought the first load of furniture for the family moving in next door had as a passenger a small boy of about his own age. He welcomed the newcomer hospitably with:

"Hello!"

"Hello yourself!"

"Say, you've got red hair, too, ain't you?"

"Yes. So have you, ain't you, jes' like mine?"

"Do they ever call you 'Red?'"

"Um-hum, and 'Reddie' and 'Redney.'"

"And 'Ginger?'"

"You bet, and 'Cedar.'"

"And 'Bricktop?'"

"Yes, and 'Sorreltop.'"

"Does your Uncle Bob say you're copper mounted?"

"I ain't got no Uncle Bob, but granddad says I've got brass fittin's."

"Ever call you 'Beets?'"

"No, but they call me 'Carrots' sometimes, 'cause I've got freckles too. See?"

A pause.

"Say, have you got a sister?"

"No. Have you?"

"Yes, but she's grown up. She wears long dresses and has got a beau that comes to see her every Sunday evening."

"Has she got red hair too?"

"Um-hum, jes' like mine."

"What do they call her?"

"Aw, she's a auburn haired beauty!"—New York Tribune.

Now They Don't Speak.

They stood at the hot chocolate counter.

"You should have seen that handsome policeman help me over the crowded street this morning," boasted the one with the blue plumes.

"I did," responded her jealous rival.

"Well, it is not every one that can receive so much attention from a handsome policeman while crossing the street."

"No, indeed. And you should have heard what he said after you were safely over."

"Ah, a pretty compliment, I'll wager?"

"No; he said he gave you just as much attention as if you had been young and good looking."

And then the polar atmosphere that drifted between them almost congealed the steaming chocolates.—Detroit Tribune.

Wronged.

"How long have you been married?" asked the judge.

"Two weeks," replied the lady.

"And you want a divorce so soon? Why, you haven't given him a chance to show you what kind of a man he is. You may like him when you come to know him."

"No, judge, I shall never like him, no matter how well I may learn to know him. He told me that his income was $5,000 a year, and I gave up alimony of $150 a month to marry him. Now I find that his salary is only $40 a week and shall never forgive him—never!"—Chicago Record-Herald.

DID NOT REACH ORLAND.

Police in Hunt for Man Who May Have Enticed Sturgis Girl.

Sturgis, Mich., Sept. 10.—Elsie Jefferies, 16 years old, has been missing from her home here since Aug. 16, and the police have been asked to locate a young traveling salesman who, it is believed, induced her to run away from home.

According to Willard Walter, at whose home Elsie was employed during the school vacation, the girl on several occasions talked with the traveling man. A week before leaving home she received a registered letter, presumably from this man. On Aug. 16 she left Sturgis, having received permission from her parents to visit an aunt who lives in Orland, Ind.

Elsie was to return on Aug. 25 to make arrangements for re-entering the high school, where she was to become a member of the junior class. When she did not return on that date her father went to Orland to look after her. There he was informed that the girl had not been seen.

MAGICAL CAREER OF HARRIMAN, THE MASTER MAN IN RAILWAY BUILDING AND BUSINESS

The death of Edward H. Harriman removes from the world its greatest single railroad and financial power of modern history. Like a story from "The Arabian Nights" reads the biography of this magician of steel rails and stock markets. In forty years, from poverty and obscurity to almost fabulous wealth and colossal power, from broker's clerk to master of more than 75,000 miles of railroad and steamship lines, enough to belt the globe with a triple girdle; from market "scalper" to arbiter of more than $150,000,000 in cash and with nearly a billion dollars in stocks and securities at his beck and call—such is a bird's-eye view of the career of the Napoleon of the railroad world," as they call him, who has just gone the way of all flesh.

How Harriman got his start has always been somewhat of a mystery to Wall street. The methods by which he bounded into command of the captains of industry have always been an enigma to his rivals and associates alike. Taciturn, mysterious, sphinx-like, but still wielding a wand that seemed to turn everything it touched into gold, Harriman was the psychological puzzle of the "street."

Morgan Meets Harriman.

It was only about twenty years ago that J. Pierpont Morgan, then at the zenith of his power in the world of finance, first knew that such a person as Harriman existed. Morgan was undertaking to adjust the affairs of the Erie road, which had been thrown into chaos by the manipulations of Daniel Drew, "Jim" Fisk and Jay Gould. A young and unknown broker named Harriman entered Morgan's office and demanded better terms. He had made a careful campaign; he showed a remarkable insight into railroad affairs; he had secured the support of a large number of stockholders and Morgan soon found that he had to deal with a man who knew the game thoroughly.

"Whom do you represent?" asked the great financier.

"Myself," was the crisp reply. And such was Harriman's answer ever afterward when asked a similar question. There have been times when "the street" supposed that Standard Oil, the Vanderbilts or some other power was back of Harriman, but the answer "myself" was never once gainsaid.

Father Was a Rector.

Of Harriman's early history little is known. He was born Feb. 25, 1848, in the rectory of St. George's Episcopal church at Hemstead, L. I., his father, Rev. Orlando Harriman, Jr., being rector of the parish. The year after young Harriman's birth a controversy cropped up between his father and the vestrymen over arrears of salary, and in 1850 the family moved to Castleton, Staten Island. In 1855, when Edward Henry Harriman was 6 years old, the family again moved, this time to Jersey City, where followed a period of extreme poverty and hardship.

There were four boys in the family, known as Nelson, Orlando, Edward Henry and William, and two girls, Lily and Annie. In 1859 the family moved to West Hoboken, where the father had been elected rector of St. John's church at a salary of $200 a year. Between 1859 and 1866 the family lived in a small house in the meadows and there was never enough to go around at meal times. An inheritance through the death of the boy's mother late in the '60s enabled the Harrimans to buy a comfortable homestead in Jersey City. During these years Edward H. Harriman was educated in district schools and finished with a two years' free course in a boys' school under church auspices.

Enters Wall Street.

Late in the '60s young Harriman entered Wall street as a broker's clerk. In a few years he had accumulated sufficient money to buy a seat on the stock exchange, which he did Aug. 12, 1870. The story generally accepted in Wall street is that he secured the money to make the purchase by plunging in a small way on the market and taking his profits on "Black Friday."

In 1870, at the age of 22, Harriman blossomed out as a trader on the exchange as Harriman & Co. He had learned the game from studying the manipulations of Fisk, Drew, Gould and Vanderbilt. Harriman showed great aptitude for "scalping" and at the end of his fifth year on 'change men had come to recognize him as a trader who made money whichever way the market went and who hung on to it after he made it.

Harriman displayed his ability as a trader a year or two after he had bought his seat. In 1871 and 1872 came the Chicago and Boston fires, with their resultant panics, and the following year fifty-seven firms failed in the panic which followed the bankruptcy of Jay Cook & Co. Out of it all Harriman made money. In 1876 he aided in crushing the "anthracite corner" and took his profits when Jersey Central collapsed from $110 a share to $6.

Gains Riches in Panic.

Later on, in 1884, when the Grant & War dfailure and the "White Corner" came, Harriman was still gathering in profits where others realized losses, and later on in 1890, when the financial world was shaken by the Baring collapse, he was still able to stand unmoved in the panic, rushing in and out of the market, and piling up wealth at every move. All these years Harriman was a broker. He gambled in stocks and bonds, and was not the creator of anything new. He was still unknown, but had accumulated wealth.

The years between 1890 and 1897 mark a division in Harriman's career, his development from a broker into a railroad magnate. In 1883 he had in his strong box a fine list of stocks picked up for almost nothing in the various panics, and he was selected a director of the Illinois Central. At that time he was a close friend of Stuyvesant Fish. In 1887 Harriman became vice president of the road and Fish president. During the period between 1889 and 1895 Harriman took no prominent part in either the railroad or the financial worlds, apparently contenting himself with waiting and studying the railroad situation, meanwhile overlooking no opportunities to gather wealth from the stock market.

Enters Railway Field.

The decade beginning Jan. 1, 1890, was momentous in the history of American railroads and industries. It swept in with a panic, settled into a lull, then swept out again in a tempest of ruin. At the beginning of this ten-year period Morgan, Vanderbilt, Jay Gould, Collis P. Huntington and James J. Hill were the railroad kings. Morgan and Vanderbilt held the coal roads and the trunk lines of the east. Gould, Huntington and Hill held the great bulk of the western roads.

The panic of 1892-3 furnished Harriman his opportunity. In 1892 there was a money stringency, crops promised failure, labor restlessness led to the Homestead riots, Jay Gould died, and dozens of small railroads failed.

Eighteen hundred and ninety-three was even a more direful year. Feb. 20 the Reading was crushed by its debts; in May the National Cordago schemo burst; July 25 the Erie fell; Aug. 10 the Northern Pacific collapsed, and on Oct. 13 passed into a receivership. In December the Atchison tumbled. In the same period of panic 642 state and national banks collapsed, and the mercantile failures totaled more than $330,000,000. Harriman had formed alliances with the Vanderbilt crowd and with the men of wealth in the Stuyvesant Fish coterie.

Harriman Ready to Act.

When the financial clouds began to clear away Harriman was ready to act. He knew the railroad map as no other man in the country knew it. He had kept his eye on Union Pacific as furnishing the greatest possibilities. For five years the road lay in the hands of receivers. A syndicate headed by Morgan had figured on the property, but had given it up as worthless. Congress was at a loss what to do with the road.

Finally the house of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., representing a mixed syndicate, offered the government $58,000,000 in cash; $27,000,000 went to settle with the holders of the first mortgage bonds. The offer was accepted and at midnight on the last day of January, 1898, the road was turned over to the mixed syndicate, and the real railroad history of Edward H. Harriman began. At that time Harriman was considered the least notable member of the syndicate, which included two members of the Vanderbilt coterie, two of the Goulds, two of the Boston crowd that had dropped millions into the old Union Pacific and several independent capitalists.

Harriman Takes Lead.

The road extended from Omaha to Ogden and was only 1,800 miles long. At once Harriman, however, marched to the front and began to display the skill as an organizer and high financier that eventually made him a railroad king. The syndicate at once bought for $3,300,000 a block of coal companies' bonds and purchased the Kansas Pacific for $6,303,000.

Harriman was made chairman of the Union Pacific, replacing Winslow S. Pierce, and in the first year and a half after his syndicate bought the road he compelled the spending of enough money on freight cars to increase the carrying capacity 75 per cent. Through Wyoming the road was a series of curves, steep grades and rickety bridges. It went up the Black Hills, then slid down again, then came to other hills, which it traversed in the same undulatory manner.

"Rebuild it right away," said Harriman.

A line almost straight was drawn by the engineers. Canyons were filled in with millions of tons of rock; slices were carved from the sides of the mountains, tunnels were cut through the hills, steel-girder bridges were swung over the chasms. It gave a straight haul, enabled the present express passenger service on the Union Pacific, lessened the cost of fuel and increased the hauling capacity of the engines.

From a money-eater the road became a gold producer so rapidly that within three years of the original expenditure the members of the syndicate received back in profits of various sorts every cent they put into the property, and the Union Pacific had come to be the marvel of Wall street.

After the Kansas lines had been acquired the syndicate took steps to induce the owners of the Oregon Short Line and the Oregon Railroad and Navigation company to exchange their stock for stock of the Union Pacific. As a lure, in the fall of 1898, some nine months after the Union Pacific had been purchased, the first dividend was declared on its preferred stock. The bait proved sufficient, and the Oregon Short Line came in—the credit of the Union Pacific had been used for the first time to acquire a railroad.

Campaign is Begun.

Then began a campaign on Wall street.

It was necessary that the stocks should be boosted so that the syndicate could sell such as it did not want to keep and replenish its coffers. Vague hints began to find circulation that a great merger was afoot. It was to include the New York Central, the Northwestern and the Union Pacific lines, and its effect was to be a tremendous advance in the stocks of these roads. There was much activity on change, and the public took millions of the stock and bonds of the Union Pacific.

The campaign ran for some ime, and as an incident the holders of the Oregon Railroad and Navigation stock were induced to exchange their holdings for Union Pacific stock. By the time the stock boosting campaign culminated in 1898, Harriman was rich. He had freed millions that had been tied up in stocks and bonds and the bank accounts of his friends in the syndicate were plethoric. It had been as easy as taking money from babies.

Harriman Takes Rest.

The year 1899 rolled along and Harriman took a rest. He had money enough. He equipped and organized the Harriman Alaska expedition, and took a ship load of scientists and his own family along the Alaskan coast and over to Siberia. The scientists gave a glacier the name Harriman, and called a fiord Harriman fiord, and tacked the term Harriman to a large portion of their zoological discoveries.

After this little holiday, Harriman bought the Chicago and Alton. Then to round out the Alton he bought the Kansas City, Pittsburg and Gulf. The Kansas City line was completed to the gulf in 1897 and on its reorganization in 1899 fell into the hands of Harriman, who treated the foreign holders of its bonds briefly. They were given what he chose to give, and were glad that it was no less.

The debt was scaled down, put into 3 per cent. bonds, which the world seemed anxious to buy just then, and Harriman engineered it so that he put very little in, took a great deal out and incidentally became chairman at a salary of $25,000 a year. In return for this he renamed the road the Kansas City Southern and rented it offices in his establishment at 120 Broadway.

Alton Deal Censured.

Over the acquisition of the Chicago and Alton and the system of high financing to which the road was treated, Harriman received more censure and criticism than for almost any other incident in his career. When he grabbed the Alton it had about $8,000,000 of debts, and $22,000,000 of stock. All these securities were valued on Wall street at about $45,000,000, and he put it through a process of reorganization that boosted the bonded debt to $54,000,000 and the stock to $40,000,000.

By the usual methods of high finance the total value of the capital was inflated from $45,000,000 to $70,000,000 without the addition of any property except a few miles of cheap railroad. Wall street, which is accustomed to such things, was even itself dazed when it awoke to the fact that Harriman had created an additional value of $25,000,000 without adding anything to the property.

Seek New Railroads.

Wall street was still wondering what had struck it when Harriman nimbly skipped to new fields of endeavor. He needed new railroads to complete the transcontinental lines which he evidently had determined to secure. He sought to wrest possession of the Central Pacific, which extended from Odden to San Francisco, from Collis P. Huntington. Mr. Huntington died suddenly in 1900. After his death, Edwin Hawley, who had been his most trusted agent and advisor, urged the sale of the Southern Pacific to the Union Pacific. Harriman got the road, but no sooner had he started to reorganize than there was trouble. He was leaving Hawley out of it, and such a protest was made that Hawley was put on the executive committee.

Harriman at once assumed dictation in the affairs of the Southern Pacific, and C. M. Hays resigned as president. Soon afterward Harriman dismissed Charles Tweed, the chairman. The principal bankers of Mr. Huntington had been Speyer & Co. They had opposed the sale of the road to Harriman, and it was not long before all the Speyer & Co. representatives had been ousted from the Southern Pacific board by Harriman.

Again Wall street gasped when it learned that Harriman had secured the Southern Pacific at little or no cost. The Union Pacific had served as banker and broker. The Union Pacific made a mortgage of $100,000,000, issued and sold $40,000,000 of bonds at par and paid for the stock in this way.

Soon after Harriman had moved the Southern Pacific over to 120 Broadway, he desired the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy to let the Union Pacific into Chicago. James J. Hill, however, bought it for the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific, and refused to give Harriman any interest in the property. Harriman at once went into the market and picked up $65,000,000 of Northern Pacific out of a total of $155,000,000. He took the certificates to Morgan & Co. and demanded a share in the Burlington purchase. Morgan answered by buying $15,000,000 of Northern Pacific common stock, which gave him control of that issue when added to the $26,000,000 he possessed. The Harriman forces had actual control of the road in the ownership of $78,000,000 of stock, but of the total stock $75,000,000 was preferred and could be retired at par. The Morgan crowd held more than $80,000,000 of the common stock. The conflict brought on the panic of May 9, 1901, when Northern Pacific rose to $1,000 a share. In this fight, in which Harriman again used the funds of the Union Pacific and not his own, the situation became so threatening that a truce had to be called.

Holding Company Formed.

Finally Harriman put his Northern Pacific stock into Hill's Northern Securities company. Harriman became a director in the securities company. When the Northern securities decision came, declaring Hill's holding company to be illegal, Hill insisted on giving the various companies whose securities had been dumped into the big jack pot pro rata shares of all the stocks covered by the securities company, to which Harriman objected, saying that inasmuch as he had put in Northern Pacific he must take out Northern Pacific. He went to law about it, but in the end took what Hill wanted to give him.

After the May panic Harriman's record is filled with quarrels. He had made Hill and Morgan his enemies; he had embittered Horace G. Burt by ousting him from the presidency of the Union Pacific, and he had enraged the Moore brothers, who had just acquired the Rock Island. During this period his financial intimates were James Stillman, Henry H. Rogers, Henry C. Frick, William Rockefeller and W. K. Vanderbilt. In 1903 he had trouble with James R. Keene. Keene had a big "pool" in Southern Pacific stock and insisted that Harriman should declare a dividend. Keene went to law about it and was defeated.

Hawley Plans Revenge.

In 1904 some of Harriman's chickens came home to roost. Edwin Hawley had not forgotten the affront put upon him in the matter of the Southern Pacific reorganization. He quietly gathered up a block of Alton stock and resigned from the Southern Pacific. Hawley became instrumental in inducing George J. Gould to take up the project of building the Western Pacific road. As soon as Harriman heard of this he dropped Gould from the Union Pacific board and also Winslow S. Pierce. The Moores then joined Hawley in a raid on Alton, and succeeded in getting more than one-half the stock without Harriman's knowledge, and in 1904 Harriman came home from Europe to find the Moores and Hawley in control of the Alton. Later on Herman Sieleken, a coffee merchant, wrestesd from Harriman control of the Kansas City Southern.

The period of the insurance company scandals furnishes one of the most interesting chapters in the career of Harriman. Following high finance custom, Harriman had formed an alliance with a bank and an insurance company from whose funds he could draw resources to aid his gigantic deals. Harriman's particular foundation was the Equitable Life Insurance society.

Explosion In Equitable.

When the Armstrong committee began to delve into the manipulations of James Hazen Hyde, Harriman advised young Hyde to admit his faults, plead the excuse of example and precedent and ask for a chance to retrieve. Instead, Hyde denounced Harriman, and there was an explosion that took the Equitable out of the hands of Hyde, Harriman, Frick and their associates.

By the end of 1905 Harriman had annexed the San Pedro road, which Senator Clark built from Salt Lake City to Los Angeles, was reaching out for the Santa Fe, $10,000,000 of whose stock found its way into the Union Pacific coffers, and was twining his fingers around the Illinois Central to get in touch with the gulf ports and the traffic between them and the great lakes, and was also after the Baltimore and Ohio, the Delaware and Hudson, the Reading, and Norfolk Western, the New York Central and even the Pennsylvania lines, all apparently with a view of completing his transcontinental lines.

Union Pacific Rich.

About this time the report of the Union Pacific showed how powerful it had become. It had bought Hill stocks for some $60,000,000 and had sold them for nearly $120,000,000. The strong-box overflowed, for the Union Pacific had $56,000,000 cash, of which it loaned $25,000,000 in Wall street. It supplied the money market with cash, thereby aiding itself to sell more stocks. By the fall of 1906 the Union Pacific treasury, supplemented by that of the Wells-Fargo Express company and bank, by the Illinois Central and the Southern Pacific, had built up a credit for Harriman which has never been equaled by any institution or system under the autocratic control of a single man.

In nearly a score of states Harriman was said to be powerful in the legislative halls, and it was even said that his influence extended to the national capital.

Coming back from a vacation in Japan, Harriman became involved in an imbroglio with Stuyvesant Fish which made a spectacular bit of railroad history. Harriman discovered that Fish had entered into a contract letting the Frisco into New Orleans. Harriman was furious because one of his rivals had thus been let into the Crescent City.

Fish replied that he was working in the interests of the Illinois Central. Four new directors of the road were to be elected. One had died; the terms of three had expired. Harriman proposed to Fish that they should re-elect the men whose terms expired and that Fish should cast his vote for a fourth man, who should be named by a majority of the old directors. The election came along. When the fourth man was named, he was an out-and-out Harriman man. Fish objected, and after a savage fight succeeded in getting a friend of his put in. When the new board met to elect officers, a strange thing happened. J. T. Harahan, John Jacob Astor and Cornelius Vanderbilt had always been counted by Fish as among his friends. But they voted for J. T. Harahan for president, and Fish was turned out.

In the fall of 1906 Harriman had a fight for retention of his control over the Wells-Fargo Express company, easily defeating the Wall street firm of Stokes & Co. It was during this controversy that William Nelson Cromwell said: "Harriman moves in a higher sphere, into which we may not enter." A month after this came the famous episode of the sudden and mysterious increase in the Union Pacific dividend. The stock was paying 4 per cent and was selling at $144, the entire issue being worth at the market $288,000,000. After the annual meeting, at which nothing was said about dividends, the market price crept up $34,000,000.

August 17 a dividend of 10 per cent on Union Pacific and 5 per cent on Southern Pacific was declared, and within an hour the market value of Union Pacific common had increased by $20,000,000, and Southern Pacific by $14,000,000.

Shortly afterward it was announced that the Union Pacific was to get a large interest in Baltimore & Ohio stock, which the Pennsylvania had sold. The financial world began to echo with reports that the Harriman element was able to give orders to the lordly Pennsylvania lines.

Union Pacific Is Buyer.

About this time, the Union Pacific, with its bulging treasury, was buying great blocks of railroad stock. Its Baltimore & Ohio holdings amounted to $40,000,000. It secured over $28,000,000 of Illinois Central, over $14,000,000 of New York Central, $10,000,000 of Atchison and smaller amounts of St. Joseph and Grand Island and St. Paul and Northwestern. Approximately $150,000,000 was paid out of the Union Pacific strong box for these stocks, and Harriman had absolute power to use the credit of the road as he saw fit. Alarmed at this tremendous power, President Roosevelt went on the Harriman trail, the machinery of the interstate commerce commission was set in motion, and an investigation was made in all the large centers into the Harriman combination of roads. In a long report the commission denounced the Harriman methods, called attention to the fact that he had the transportation facilities of the country within his power and uttered a warning.

Defies the Government.

Suits were brought in several states to forfeit Harriman charters, and a vigorous attack was made upon the acquisition of western coal lands by the Union Pacific. When the attack was at its height Harriman secured practical control of the New York Central and bought the Central of Georgia, thus giving himself a line from ocean to ocean and from the great lakes to the gulf. Furthermore, he defied the government by announcing his intention to buy all the railroads worth buying unless some one found power to stop him.

Of Harriman's personality very little can be said that is pleasing. His friends were few. Socially he was a pleasant companion, but in business life he was imperious, haughty, dictatorial.

Next to juggling with railroads and stocks, his great enjoyment was in his home. His girls, Mary, Cornelia and Carol, are said to be plain, old-fashioned girls, while the boys, Averell and Roland, are common everyday boys of the healthy, normal sort. He was also a great lover of horses and owned an ocean going yacht, but these were but toys, his keenest pleasure being found in the manipulations that brought him the title, "the railroad king."

He Knew All About Spelling.

FOR THE THIN AND SCRAWNY.

Samose Will Make You Plump and Rosy, Says Meyer Bros. Co.

If you are getting thin, you are sick, although you may not know it. If you are losing weight steadily, there is something wrong that needs looking after. If you have always been thin it doesn't follow that you are sick, but you may not be healthy. You cannot be strong if you are thin.

Try then to be healthy and plump; it is not difficult if you know how.

The only way to increase the weight and gain health and flesh is by using Samose, the standard flesh-forming food and tissue builder. It mingles with the food you eat and is assimilated so that all the flesh forming and tissue building elements of the food are retained in the system. This explains the great value of Samose.

Weight yourself before you begin using Samose. It will not cost you a cent unless it increases your weight and restores your health.

YOUNG BOWLERS GET TOGETHER FOR SEASON

Second Brunswick League is Organized at a Big Meeting.

The young bowlers of the city got together in an enthusiastic gathering at the Brunswick alleys last night and organized Brunswick league No. 2, which will operate under the same rules as the first organization and which will open the season on September 20 and play with eight clubs.

Another meeting will be held Monday night at which the final details will be completed for the opening and plans mapped out for the regular season's work. The fact that there are so many bowlers anxious to get in the second league, who have been at the game a season or two and do not feel like they can compete with the men in the first league, indicates that there will be a great revival of the sport during the winter.

The improvements to the alleys are about complete and William McKay, who established the plant, has put in new balls and pins and gotten the alleys in as good shape as the most expert men of the Brunswick-Balke company could put them. The election of officers resulted as follows:

President—A. E. Ensinger.
First Vice President—A. Mueller.
Second Vice President—H. B. Ellenwood.
Third Vice President—W. Doell.
Treasurer—Ben Ungemuch.
Secretary—Charles H. Spalding.
Executive Committee—A. Ayres, Theodore Starke, Carl Steup, William Wiebke and Irwin Miller.

The players who will engage in the combat with the Van Wert team tonight had a good work out for the event and are ready to tackle the visitors. The games will be rolled at the Brunswick beginning at 8 o'clock.

CROWD HISSES JACK JOHNSON AS HE PASSES

Negro Champion Fought Listlessly But Got the Best of Mill.

San Francisco, Sept. 10.—Toying with his opponent as a cat would play with a mouse, Jack Johnson easily outclassed Al Kaufman, winning a "newspaper decision" after ten rounds of fighting at Coffroth's arena. Under the articles of agreement if both men were on their feet at the end of the route no decision would be rendered. Referee Eddie Smith, however, stated the black champion was entitled to the verdict.

Johnson's far-famed golden smile was in evidence from bell to bell, and the tantalizing lefts and forceful right uppercuts employed by the powerful black fairly bewildered the native son. Johnson landed when and where he pleased and early in the contest Kaufman's face began to show signs of the champion's stinging punches. With a well-directed left Jack started the blood flowing from Al's mouth early in the third.

The small crowd present showed a surprising lack of enthusiasm over the contest and the negro didn't score heavily with the spectators by holding himself in reserve during the opening rounds. Jack worked only in response to constant gibing by the crowd and an occasional punch from the blacksmith. But when he did let fly his punches sounded like the beating of a massed tattoo on a flock of drums.

Kaufman played the role of the willing receiver up to the eighth, without landing a half-dozen blows on his smiling opponent. In the ninth Al slipped a vicious right swing against Johnson's stomach. It was Kaufman's best blow and it convinced the negro that he had better be careful.

Fight followers discussing the outcome of the mill last night contended that Kaufman should hereafter shun short-round affairs. He appeared to gain strength as the battle progressed, while Johnson, who apparently had trained none too well, began to show signs of weakening. The champion loomed up hog fat as he posed for a photograph, while Kaufman appeared to be in the "pink." Johnson drew a storm of hisses from the crowd as he entered the club house and sauntered down the aisle to the ring. Kaufman's appearance in the arena was the signal for a tremendous ovation.

FISHER GETS GRAND SUPPORT FROM STOGIES

This Enables Him to Add Another Victory Making Sixteen Straight.

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 10.—When Forest Cady hit for a home run in the second inning of the game here with Wheeling and sent a man over ahead of him it loked like Johnny Fisher's winning record would be broken by a defeat, as the Champs had been bumping him pretty regularly, but he tightened up after that and, although the locals had no great difficulty in getting to him his support won the game.

He hit one man, passed one and had five strike outs to his credit, but it was not his work that saved the game. The infield worked lightning fast behind him and by some tall sprinting big Bill Donahue pulled down several drives that had extra-base tags on them. Fisher was steady in the pinches and the team hit like wildfire to help him win.

The victory was the sixteenth in a row for him, but he had a troublesome time getting away with it. The record will probably stand for a long time for the Central league as no other pitcher has ever accomplished the feat. The score:

THE DETAILS AND THE STATISTICS.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 10.—The Raiders executed some rapid fire stick work in the double combat with Fort Wayne that pounded the repertoires of two flingers all out of shape and gave the home nine a couple of victories. The first was annexed by a score of seven to one and although the afterpiece went only five rounds the Stags piled up nine runs without allowing the opposition to count.

Walter Miller, one time a Grand Rapids pitcher, was sent to the front in the curtain raiser and the grapplers were applied to him before the festivities incidental to the initial inning were over. Kehoe negotiated a single for a starter and Core moved him up with a sacrifice. Sam McNiece scored him with a hit and Bill Bailey landed for a single. With two men on Nick Kahl tore off a triple and sent them over. He reached the plate when Sundheim hit for three bags. Miller was hooked and Alberts stopped the Stags for a few minutes.

Elston hit for two buses in the second and scored when Raidy made a bad throw to catch him at third on Lindsay's ground ball. Kehoe got a three-base hit in the fifth and scored on a passed ball and one was added in the sixth on Kahl's second triple and a fumble by Lindsay on Sundheim's drive. A three-base hit by McNiece and a single by Bailey brought in the final run.

In the second game Alberts got bumped right. After he had walked Kehoe in the first McNiece and Core hit, sending over two runs. In the fourth there were some great doings. Kahl hit for a starter and Sundheim also landed. Bailey was passed, filling the sacks, and Raidy and Kihm were retired without damage, but Humphries singled and Alberts failed to handle Kehoe's little roller. Core cleaned up the bases with a triple and scored on a wild pitch. McNiece hit for three bases and scored on Kahls hit. This made a total of seven runs for the inning in which a dozen men faced the pitcher. The scores:

AUTO CATCHES FIRE IN GARAGE; MAN IS BURNED

Hale Parrish, Driver, Suffers Injury and Car is Badly Damaged.

Hale Parrish, a chauffeur for Straus Bros. & Co., was painfully burned about the hands and arms when a big White steamer on which he was at work in the Randall garage, on West Wayne street, caught fire at 9:30 o'clock today. The auto was badly damaged and incidentally the affair caused a lot of excitement.

Only prompt work upon the part of the attaches of the garage prevented possibly serious fire damage. The car, owned by Straus Bros., was in the garage with many others, and as Parrish was at work upon it it suddenly flemed up, the blaze enveloping the car and threatening the entire establishment. Dther employes rushed to the scene and quickly pushed the flaming car out into the alley in the rear of the garage. A stiff fight by a bucket brigade extinguished the fire before the department reached the scene. The damage to the car will probably amount to several hundred dollars. Parrish's injuries are painful, but not dangerous.

McKee is appointed general superintendent, with office at Kansas City, in place of Mr. Gould. M. M. Richey is appointed general superintendent of the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern, with office at Little Rock, succeeding Mr. McKee. J. F. Murphy is made superintendent of the Arkansas division of the Iron Mountain, with office at Little Rock, in place of Mr. Richey. C. B. Wildman is appointed superintendent of the Central division of the Iron Mountain, with offices at Van Buren, Ark., as successor to Mr. Murphy.

E. A. Gould, who goes to the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton as general manager, succeeding General Superintendent Joseph A. Gordon, is one of the most popular officials on the Missouri Pacific system and is regarded by his superiors and associates as one of the most proficient operating experts in the country. His offer from the new management of the C., H. & D. came to Mr. Gould as a surprise, and until exceptionally tempting inducements were held out to him he had not thought of making a change. It is no secret that the Missouri Pacific management regrets to part with his services, though the man who succeeds to his position is a thoroughly competent and experienced official. Mr. Gould is a close personal friend of President William Cotter, of the C., H. & D., and they were for a number of years intimately associated officially on the Missouri Pacific.

INVESTIGATING A DEATH.

Nickel Plate Wants to Know What Ailed Passenger.

The entire detective force of the Nickel Plate is looking after the male companion of an Italian woman who died suddenly on eastbound train No. 2 as it was passing through Wanatah last Tuesday. Until the body was removed from the train at Knox and the man refused to accompany it on the ground that he was not a relative nor intimate friend of the woman, simply meeting and forming her acquaintance in the Chicago depot a few minutes before the start for the east, he was supposed to be her husband. The woman notified Conductor Chris Sauer soon after the train left Chicago that she was sick and he telegraphed to Thomaston to have a physician at the train. Her condition was such that the physician could do nothing to relieve her and she died shortly afterwards. A physician at Knox, from a hurried examination, pronounced the cause of death as heart disease. The body was turned over to the coroner at Knox and an effort to locate relatives resulted in finding that her husband resided in Colorado City, Col., and that the woman was going to Italy on a visit. In reply to an inquiry, the husband said that his wife had $125, all the money they possessed, and that this should be used in defraying the expenses of sending the body back to Colorado. No money was found on the body. This gave rise to the suspicion that the woman had been drugged and robbed and an effort is being made to locate her traveling companion to see if he could explain the matter. It is not known where the man left the train.

SHOPMAN TO BE SHOWMAN.

George Killen Will Start Moving Picture Show.

George G. Killen, for the past twenty years employed as a blacksmith in the Pennsylvania shops, has secured a five years' lease of the Kuhne and Tresselt building at 1124 Calhoun street, and will install therein on the first floor a moving picture show. He will sublet the second and third floors for offices or other purposes. The building has a frontage of 25 feet and a depth of 120 feet. For a number of years it has been occupied by the Indiana Furniture company, whose new building on East Main street will soon be completed, when they will vacate the old place. Mr. Killen will take a leave of absence from the shops for a month or two to get his show business started and it may be that he will retire permanently from the forge. He expects to open his show early in October.

DRAUGHTING SCHOOL.

Y. M. C. A. Will Conduct One This Fall.

A school in mechanical drawing will be one of the features of the fall and winter season at the Railroad Y. M. C. A. Arrangements in that direction have commenced, though they have not reached a point where the announcement of the teacher's name can be made. The school will commence in October.

NEW WORK TRAIN.

Nickel Plate Puts Another One in Operation.

This morning the Nickel Plate put a work train in service at Glenn Park, forty miles east of Chicago. Conductor C. D. Baxter and Brakemen C. E. Downing, J. W. Smith and E. J. Morritt were sent there last night to take charge of the train. The engine crew is composed of Stony Island men.

BASS WORKS PAY ROLL BIGGER.

This was pay day at the Bass works and the cash distribution today was $4.000 more than it was last month. There has been a steady improvement in business at the works for the past three or four months, each pay day exceeding in cash distribution the one which preceded it. While there have been no very important orders placed with the company for machine shop products lately, there have been numerous small ones which in the aggregate amount to a good deal and account for the increase in pay roll. The foundry has been quite busy for some weeks.

ENGINE AND CAR BUILDING.

There has been a decided improvement in the situation with engine and car builders the past three of four months and the Pittsburg Dispatch yesterday said that within the past few days steel car companies in Pittsburg and vicinity had received orders from southern and western roads for 1,475 cars to cost about $1,500,000. The same paper said that the New York Central was in the market for 235 locomotives. The Dispatch also itemized a dozen or more inquiries from railways concerning cars and locomotives, many of which will be followed by contracts.

Sarver, of the boiler department of the Pennsylvania, news of the death of his uncle, Isaac Pinkerton, a well known resident of Pittsburg, which occurred last night. ANOTHER CHICAGO EXCURSION.

District Passenger Agent Frank P. Parnin, of the Nickel Plate, is engaged in working up an excursion from Bellevue and intermediate points to Chicago on October 9. A special train will be run and all of the passenger trains will carry excursionists. It is presumed the Pennsylvania will also run an excursion to Chicago on that date.

Henry Lagemann, assistant division storekeeper of the Pennsylvania, and his wife entertained Mr. and Mrs. Henry Reiter, of Chicago, last night. Mr. Reiter is a baggageman on the Pennsylvania trains 28 and 29 and had been east enjoying a ten days' vacation. He formerly resided here.

The station will be two stories, of brick and stone and will contain six tracks. The second story will be devoted to traffic department offices.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen will leave this evening for their home.

George L. Sharp resumed his place at the desk in the Bass works' office this morning, after an absence of ten days. The latter portion of the time was devoted to a conference with Major General William McKee and Quartermaster George W. Powell, at Indianapolis, relative to overcoats and uniforms for Company D, of this city.

Yesterday the employes in the Baltimore and Ohio Southern shops at Washington, Ind., received instructions to work fifty-four hours per week. Since the beginning of the panic in 1907, the shops at that place have not worked over forty-five hours per week and a good deal of the time they were in operation on a shorter schedule. About 800 men are employed in those shops.

JUMPED AND SAVED HIMSELF.

Young George Lauer's Wheel Caught Under Street Car Wheels.

George Lauer, a young boy living on Gay street and employed as a messenger at the Ortman cigar factory, saved himself from perhaps serious injury this morning in jumping off his wheel as it was struck and caught underneath Pontiac street car No. 107 south-bound, on Calhoun street, between Berry and Wayne. The lad was trying to ride between the street car and a wagon when his rear wheel skidded into the path of the car. Throwing himself sideways to the pavement, he received only a few slight bruises. Neither was his wheel badly damaged for the trucks of the car pushed it along until stopped.

LOOKED LIKE BIG FIRE.

Light from Big Sign Through Fog Gave Startling Appearance.

People out-of-doors last night between 10 and 11 o'clock were startled in looking towards the center of the city by what appeared to be the light from a big fire. The appearance was particularly noticeable in the eastern part of the city and inquiries as to the location of the blaze were numerous. In fact, it was the reflection of the monster "Fort Wayne With Might and Main" sign at the transfer corner, the heavy fog hanging at that time lending it a deceiving appearance.

S.S.S. NATURE'S PERFECT TONIC

Something more than an ordinary tonic is required to restore health to a weakened, run-down system; the medicine must possess blood-purifying properties as well, because the weakness and impurity of the circulation is responsible for the poor physical condition. The blood does not contain the necessary quantity of rich, red corpuscles, and is therefore a weak, watery stream which cannot afford sufficient nourishment to sustain the system in ordinary health. A poorly nourished body cannot resist disease, and this explains why so many persons are attacked by a spell of sickness when the use of a good tonic would have prevented the trouble. In S. S. S. will be found both blood-cleansing and tonic qualities combined. It builds up weak constitutions by removing all impurities and germs from the blood, thus supplying certain means for restoring strength and invigorating the system. The healthful, vegetable ingredients of which S. S. S. is composed make it splendidly fitted to the needs of those systems which are delicate from any cause. It is Nature's Perfect Tonic, free from all harmful minerals, a safe and pleasant acting medicine for persons of every age. S. S. S. rids the body of that tired, worn-out feeling so common at this season, improves the appetite and digestion, tones up the stomach, acts with pleasing effects on the nervous system, and reinvigorates every portion of the body.

PILGRIM JOE'S WARES

Announces More Moving Pictures and More Remedies.

CURE FOR BROKEN NECKS.

Full Directions With Each Bottle. Good News For Those Suffering With Bug In the Ear—Beware of the Fake Druggist.

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

I BEG to announce to the suffering public that in addition to my well known and highly prized remedies known as Pilgrim Joe's Painful Alleviator and Pilgrim Joe's Elix of Life, neither of which the world could now do without, I have invented and placed on sale with all respectable druggists the following, viz:

Pilgrim Joe's Sure Shot For Broken Necks.

Pilgrim Joe's Bug In the Ear Remedy.

Pilgrim Joe's Bowlegged and Bow Back Straightener.

In calling at a drug store for my remedies don't make a purchase until the druggist makes an affidavit before a notary public that he has never been sent to state prison except by accident, and likewise assure yourself that the store is not run in connection with a faro bank.

Statistics show that every year at least 10,000 people die of broken necks. Most of them are caused by falling down the cellar stairs while going after a pitcher of cider, but my remedies should be kept in every house in the land, no matter about the cider. Full directions accompany each bottle, and a child can understand. As soon as the victim announces that he has broken his neck he should be stretched out on his back and the two ends of the broken spine brought together. Then begin to rub on the remedy. Talk in a gentle, soothing voice as you rub. Assure the victim that his neck will be longer and stronger than ever when you get through with him and try to prevent all mental excitement. The bones will begin to knit almost at once, and two hours will complete the job. He may not feel like drinking any cider that night, but on the next will call for half a barrel to make up for lost time. Only 50 cents a bottle, and you contract no doctor's bill. Whether you expect to break your neck or your leg, keep it in the house.

Ever since history can tell us anything about man and bugs there have been bugs in the ear. Some fly there, and some crawl there. A senator on the floor charging Roosevelt with imperialism is just as apt to get a bug in his ear as the farmer turning handsprings on his haymow. Queens have had them as well as peasants. Up to this time the person with a bug in his ear has suffered for days or weeks before finding relief. My remedy is instantaneous. Lay the victim on his side and drop ten drops of the liquid in his ear. Don't try to remove the insect with tongs or pinchers. Don't send for a doctor, who will charge you $2 and stand you on your head. The first drop of my remedy that strikes the bug will give him to understand that he has made a mistake in the orifice, and he won't be a minute backing out and looking for a knothole in the floor. Provided with a bottle of my remedy you can sleep under haystacks the year round. If there is a roaring in the ear after the bug backs out, let 'er roar. It is only a bluff and will soon get tired of it.

Remedy a New One.

I have read history back for 4,000 years and have found that bow backed and bowlegged men existed as long ago as then and were just as bashful and diffident as now. Be bashful, be diffident no more. Pilgrim Joe has come to save you. While my remedy is a new one, I have tried it on my uncle, my aunt, my mother-in-law, two cousins and a brother-in-law, and it has worked beautifully in each and every instance. My uncle was so bowlegged that he appeared to be seated on a cider barrel. I rubbed his legs only three times with my remedy, and he appeared to be seated on an inch board. Men came ten miles to see his legs and carry away pieces of them as souvenirs.

My mother-in-law was so bow backed that she could almost pick a pin up off the floor in her teens. She rubbed her own back four times with the remedy and then straightened up with such a sudden jerk that her back comb flew out of the window. She is now able to look at the ceiling for the first time in fifteen years. My aunt had one short leg, resulting from a broken hip. She used the bowlegged remedy, and it either pulled the short leg down or the long leg up, and within a week she attended a country dance and led in "Money Musk." I don't claim that my remedy will cure all such cases as hers, as her being a relative probably had much to do with it, but it's a sure thing on the others.

A bowlegged man sees and falls in love with a handsome girl. He would go courting but for his legs. He realizes that he has no show whatever. A young man in the bloom of health and full of ambition would like to be elected to the legislature. Alas, he is bowbacked. He would be called a crook even before he took his seat. He must poke along as he is—that is, it has gone that way for 4,000 long years, but need go that way no longer. Fifty cents a bottle, and one bottle does for the legs and backs of an average family.

While all my remedies are on sale at respectable drug stores, I am still traveling over the country with my outfit. Buy of me when you can and thus prevent mistakes. You also help the heathen in buying of me. I have a regular book account with the heathen and settle up with him every Saturday night. Such patrons as get external and internal mixed up must take their own risks.

Two weeks ago my outfit of moving pictures which do move met with grief while being exhibited at the town of Happy Day. The name of the town signifies that it is a happy day when one gets out of it. I thought I had a large and cultivated audience, but soon found myself mistaken. I was showing a picture of Faith kneeling at the foot of the cross when a bad man in the audience claimed that Faith was his runaway wife and demanded to know her whereabouts. After some difficulty I pursuaded him that he was mistaken, but there was more trouble ahead. When I showed the picture of George Washington there were cheers for Washington, Napoleon and Columbus. I attempted to set the factions right when a free for all fight took place, and the tent was torn down and much damage done.

A Happy Statement.

I am happy to make the statement here that all is well again. I have not only patched up the mangled remains of Faith and Washington, but have several entirely new views. One of them is a view of a silver mine in the west which has millions of tons of the richest ore in sight, but whose stock can be bought for 11 cents on the dollar. With the picture of the mine I also show the picture of the man who owns it. It is said to be even better than the one at police headquarters in Denver.

I also show an entirely new picture of Columbus discovering America. He stands with one foot on the deck of his vessel and the other on the bulwarks, and the smile on his face is like molasses on buckwheat cakes. He has done something smart and knows it. Old Cabot will dispute the honors with him later on, but Christopher seems to realize that all true Americans will stick by him.

A third picture is ex-President Roosevelt leaving the White House after serving his second term. He left that my artist might take his picture and that he might get to Oyster Bay and have some oysters. There is no shadow of regret on his face. On the contrary, he seems to be saying: "Goodby, you blamed old rookery. Goodby, Foraker, Tillman and Bailey." All other shows, whether secular or religious, are cautioned not to use this picture without permission.

It should be understood by the public that there is nothing in my exhibitions to bring on brainstorms or total depravity. Elders of churches have not gone away after viewing them and robbed henroosts, and members of legislatures have sold their votes previous to admission and have nothing to lose.

Watch for Pilgrim Joe and his remedies and free exhibitions. If the one won't cure you, the other will. If both fail, then nothing ails you and the burden is off your mind.

His Confession.

She's such a dainty, winsome bit
Of feminine humanity,
Entirely unaware of it,
And wholly free from vanity!
I lost my heart when first we met.
She was so sweet and squeezable—
I own I haven't done it yet;
It never seemed quite feasible.

But still she rules within my heart,
And, strange peculiarity,
She binds me to her by an art
Without familiarity.
I grow to love her more and more,
Though I'm a husband dutiful,
And, pray, why not? She's only four
And doesn't know she's beautiful.

THE MARKETS

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago Market.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 10.—Despite an advance of 1d in prices of wheat at Liverpool the market here today was heavy early in the session. There was a moderate flurry in the September delivery at the start, owing to covering by shorts, but the prices soon dropped back 1c on profit taking. Opening quotations were ¼c lower to ¾c higher, with December at 96⅜c to 96⅝c.

The wheat market rallied sharply late in the session on buying by shorts, December advancing from 96⅞c to 98c. The close was strong with December up 1⅛c at 97⅝c.

Increased receipts of corn caused weakness in the market for that grain at the start. Cash demand was reported much better, but offerings from the country were also said to be much more liberal. Prices at the start were ¼c higher to ¼c lower, December being at 60c to 60⅛c.

The low point for December corn was reached at 59⅞@60c. The market rallied materially late in the day in sympathy with the upturn in wheat, December rising to 60½c. The close was firm, with December ⅛@¼c higher, at 60⅝@60¾c.

Oats were weak, because of selling prompted by constant increase of stocks. After opening unchanged to ⅛c lower at 30⅛c to 30¼c, the December delivery dropped off to 30c.

Provisions in general were inclined to be weak early in the day, because of the easier tone of grain. September pork was an exception and showed a gain of 10c, owing to covering by shorts. Prices at the opening were 2½c lower to 10c higher.

STOCK AND BONDS.

The Day on Wall Street.

New York, Sept. 10.—First prices of stocks showed wide gains over the closing prices of yesterday when the market was under the influence of rumors of E. H. Harriman's death. The Harriman stocks themselves were leaders in the advance and the centers of activity. There were sales of 8,000 shares of Union Pacific at 196 and 197½, compared with 194½ last night; of 5,000 shares of Southern Pacific at 125 and 125¾, compared with 123 last night, and of 8,000 shares of United States Steel at 77¾ and 77½, compared with 76¾ last night. Union Pacific preferred also was up 2¾. These prices were all above the parity of the London quotations reported just before the market opened here. This was true generally of all of the international stocks, which showed gains of from 1 to 2 points. The stocks with a wholly domestic market shared fully in the strength of the international issues, showing many gains of between 1 and 2 points.

Profit taking sales cost half a dozen stocks 1 to 1½ points. Later on the whole list was lifted to a better range than at the outset, but the market grew dull at the top. Union Pacific gained 3¼ in all. St. Paul was taken freely at a gain of 2 points.

Demand from the short interests became urgent and carried Union Pacific up 8 points to 202½; the preferred 8¼, Southern Pacific 6⅝. Reading 3 and United States Steel 2⅜ to 79. Elsewhere the advance was from 1 to 1½ points. At noon the market was climbing again and prices were ruling at the best all around. Union Pacific bringing 203½.

Union Pacific's feverish spurt to 206 was followed by a reaction of 2¾ points, which checked the advance elsewhere. Reading reached 3¾ rise.

The market became wavering for a while, the extraordinary advances in the Harriman group rendering the room traders somewhat timid. United States Steel was up to 80¾, a new record price. Union Pacific rebounded to 206½ and the entire list returned to its best figures.

The market closed strong and active. Union Pacific rose again, touching 207¼. Reading's gain reached 5⅝ and New York Central 4. The pirve level advanced moderately up to the top level of the day in general

LOCAL MARKET EPITOME.

Friday did not produce the market receipts anticipated, the day being rather a quiet one with no articles changing.

The firm tone in the egg and potato markets did not lessen and the activities in them tomorrow are likely to be heavy.

In the grain lines, wheat advanced 2c to $1.05 per bushel, but other lines are not yet affected. This change is contrar yto the expectations of the millers and its life is likely to be short.

NEW! NEW! NEW!

Autumn Goods Just Out of Their Wrappings

This should be a beautiful season of clothes. A gown simply cannot be beautiful unless the material pleases the eye. This year dressmakers and tailors and the woman who makes her own clothes have wonderfully lovely things to pick from.

We invite you to see these beauteous silks and lovely wool fabrics while the line is at its height of completeness—right now.

Every Day Brings New Dress Fabrics

What are your needs this fall—a Tailored Suit, a One-Piece Frock, an Evening Gown or Reception Dress? Here's the material for any and all of them, selected from the best lines in this and foreign countries. For instance:

ENCHANTING SILKS

Responding to the urgent demand for corded materials, many of the new silks are woven with the corded idea in view, and, while giving an effect of weight, they are soft enough to work with and "make up' well. Among these corded weaves are the

SILK BENGALINES, DIAGONALS AND CORDED FAILLES

In rich, plain colorings.

WINTER FOULARDS

Of extra weight and width are a decided novelty of the season. These are not shown in the regulation foulard patterns, but in every case come in net and lace designs—that is, upon a solid background the pattern, in black, is printed in Chantilly lace or net effect. These are distinctly new and beautiful.

SILK CASHMERE AND BELVOIR SILK CASHMERES

are of pure silk in a cashmere-like weave, a soft, beautiful quality, particularly adapted to prevailing drapery fashions.

THE PERSIAN SILKS

of Swiss manufacture with Persian patterns are beautiful combinations of harmoniously blended colors. They make charming waists to wear with the fall tailor-mades.

SILK ARMURES, MOIRE VELOURS, SILK POPLINS, PALM CREPES, FAILLES, MESSALINES AND TAFFETAS,

Soft and shimmmering in quality, rich in their autumnal tones or exquisite in the new shades of the season.

All these silks are shown in the new blues, all brown shades from the popular seal to leather and banana shades, old gold, dark rose, violet, ship gray, egg plant, amethyst and all shadings of green.

Buying a Stove

Is an important undertaking. If you get an unsatisfactory article there's misery ahead for you all the time. Some stoves cook well, but eat up an awful amount of coal. Other stoves are economically inclined in this respect but don't bake well. This Range is built of good solid stuff. It doesn't cost much to run it. It bakes beautifully, and its price is $29.00. That amount couldn't buy the same qualities in any other stove.
